Holdup to be Replaced by New Craft

To Improve Nine Miles Of Road Tenders for New Ferry

Flush Coating on Okanagan Highway Is District's Quota

Total of Nine Miles to be Spread Over Highway Sections Near Petrie's Corner, Westbank, Peachland and Summerland—Asphalt Mulch on Seven Miles in North Okanagan south of Vernon—Same Service as on Fraser Canyon and K.L.O. Road

Work is Expected to Start at Once

NINE miles of roads in South Okanagan district will be given a flush coat treatment this season, according to an announcement emanating from Hon. F. M. MacPherson, minister of public works. These nine miles and the construction of the new ferry, as announced in another column, will comprise the provincial government's public works program in this riding this year.

In an interview with The Courier, G. N. Stowe, district engineer, stated that while the actual sections had not definitely been decided upon, it could be assumed that the section of the road to Vernon from Petrie's Corners south would be included and also a section of the road from Westbank to the ferry, the Trepanier to Peachland section and that portion running from Summerland to the southern boundary of the district.

"This flush coating is the same as that on the Fraser Canyon highway from Hope to Spences Bridge," Mr. Stowe told The Courier. "While it is not a definite hard surface, it makes a good road and if you care to examine the K.L.O. road which has just been finished in this manner, you can see for yourself what type of job it is. It stands up fairly satisfactorily as well. A coat of penetrating oil is put on first

BOYCE PARK NOW OPEN TO PUBLIC

The Gyro Club has decided to open Boyce Park to the public and any person is free to use the park for picnic purposes. The club requests that all persons using the park refrain from harming the trees or moving the benches to other locations. Recently some person invaded the park and removed the tables and benches entirely outside the park and, after using them, left them there. This type of action, the Gyro club feels, is hardly playing the game with the rest of the public and consequently, Mr. Brown has been appointed caretaker and supervisor of the premises.

Fire Chiefs In Convention At Vernon

Above is pictured most of the delegates to the sixth annual B. C. Fire Chiefs' College held last week in Vernon. Kelowna's fire brigade teams won distinction at the College by packing away both major awards for volunteer brigades in the wet and dry hose class. Arising from this convention, there was formed a B.C. Firemen's Association to be the bargaining agent for the 1,100 paid and volunteer firemen in the province.

SUN LIFE MAY ENTER OKANAGAN FOR D.H.A. LOANS

Head Office Official Visits District To Investigate Possibilities

FAVOURABLY IMPRESSED Discuss Situation With Local Business Men

As a result of the visit to this city on Tuesday of J. Taylor Wood of the mortgage department of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, Montreal, and D. D. Munro, manager of the mortgage department of that company for the province of British Columbia, the hope of a more effective working of the Dominion Housing Act in this district, is entertained.

While the insurance company's representatives could not make a definite statement as to their company's intentions of entering the loaning business in this field, they indicated that there was strong probability that the company would take such action, provided suitable arrangements could be made and a survey of the field indicated that there was a sufficient business in view to warrant the formation of the necessary organization.

The two officials were interviewed by some dozen Kelowna men representing various organizations at the Royal Anne immediately following their arrival on Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Wood outlined the policy of his company and indicated the type of organization which it would be necessary to set up if the company should enter the field to handle loans under the D.H.A. The organization would include a local inspector and appraiser.

The officials were conducted on a tour of the city and expressed themselves as very favourably impressed. At a later meeting they indicated that, while they could make no official announcement as to the plans of the company, they felt that the field appeared to be sufficient to warrant the company setting up an organization to handle the D.H.A. loans.

START CANVASS FOR CONTRACT SIGN-UP

Ten Canvassers Assigned To Okanagan Districts This Week

Ten canvassers have been appointed by B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. to cover the various districts in the Okanagan and endeavor get a further sign-up to the standard contract. These ten men met in Kelowna last Saturday, discussed the contract fully and received their instructions as to the carrying out of the further campaign.

The number of signatures received from the Okanagan is now approaching the sixty per cent mark. It is understood, and within the next three weeks it is hoped that the 75 per cent mark will be reached, at least. No accurate figures as to the percentages have been struck by the Fruit Board staff in the last couple of weeks, due to the rush of closing the one-desk pools.

FIRE ON HARVEY AVENUE
At 6.55 o'clock Wednesday evening the Kelowna Volunteer Fire Brigade was called to the home of G. Cairns, Harvey avenue, to extinguish a chimney fire. No damage was done to the residence.

Equalization Loss Of One-Desk Works Out at 30.39 Cents

All Costs Completed by Staffs of B. C. Tree Fruits Ltd., and Shippers Now Have Returns—Growers May Expect Most Final Results by First of Week—Only Fifth of Crop is Affected

Drop in Selling Price Estimated at $250,000

TUESDAY afternoon shippers throughout the Okanagan were mailed complete returns of the one-desk selling scheme's final pools, which realized an equalization loss of 30.39 cents per box, approximately the same as was predicted in last week's Kelowna Courier. This equalization loss includes all conditional losses, repacking costs, dump and processing.

Tied in with this amount are the selling costs of 1.05 cents per box, 2.65 cents for average brokerage charges, and 12.01 cents per box cold storage charges. These figures bring the total reductions to be made up to 46.1 cents. It must be noted, however, that the cold storage charges are spread over the entire crop and will not mean nearly that much when final returns go to the growers. It is also understood that the crop in the one-desk deal carried most of the cold storage costs, as the domestic apples sent prior to the deal went mostly from cold storage.

BUY AT HOME, RETAIL MERCHANT PRESIDENT URGES

W. F. Whiteway Convinced Purchases Can be Made to Better Advantage Here

DEPLORES PURCHASES ELSEWHERE

Merchants, Wives and Guests Hear Challenge Hurlled at Dinner Meeting

That some effort should be made by the merchants of this city to stop "outside" purchases running into many thousands of dollars every year, was the challenge hurled by W. F. Whiteway, president of the retail merchants' association of the Kelowna board of trade, at a dinner meeting of that body at the Aquatic Club on Tuesday evening, at which the members wives and a number of guests were also present.

"A hundred thousand dollars worth of business goes out of this city every year to business firms in other centres. This is not because the great majority of these purchases cannot be made here but is due to a misunderstanding on the part of the people and a lack of co-operation among the merchants themselves. The first can only be rectified," Mr. Whiteway said, "by a program of education among the people themselves. The latter situation is entirely up to the merchants themselves. The retail merchants branch's main objective is to promote better understanding among the merchants and to encourage better business practices. Only when the merchants co-operate can the people of the district be convinced that they can

Tenders for New Ferry To Accommodate 30 Cars to be Called

Hundred Thousand Dollars Allocated for Construction of New Ferry to Replace Holdup—Will be Faster and Will Carry Thirty Cars—Telegram to Courier Confirms Statement—Engineer to come Here to Arrange Auxiliary Service

Announcement Ends Long Agitation

TENDERS for a new ferry to replace the present M.S. Holdup will be called immediately, Capt. C. R. Bull, M.L.A., has informed The Courier. This was subsequently confirmed by a wire to The Courier from A. Dixon, chief engineer of the department of public works, Victoria.

The greatest interest in the government's public works program, as far as the Okanagan was concerned, centered around the ferry announcement, although the announcement that sundry sections of roadwork would be undertaken in North Okanagan, South Okanagan and Similkameen ridings is received with satisfaction.

"There are four distinct items of interest to the people of South Okanagan in the government's program," Capt. Bull told The Courier. "The first is that the new ferry will be built this year, although it will, of course, not be in commission this year. Hon. F. M. MacPherson told me in a telephone conversation that the tenders would be called immediately and construction proceeded with at once."

"The second item of interest is the fact that nine miles of our highways will receive a flush coating treatment. This is of a semi-permanent nature, similar to that now in use from Hope to Spences Bridge along the Fraser Canyon. The K.L.O. road has also received a treatment similar to this during the past week. This treatment makes a satisfactory job and the nine miles when completed will be a great improvement to our system."

"Another important feature locally, is that Mr. J. Armstrong, mechanical superintendent of the public works department, will be in Kelowna within the next few days to arrange definitely an auxiliary service to assist the ferry during the rush season this fall."

"A further item which will be of force and a sign placed on the Holdup

Okanagan Municipalities Adamant On Question of Payments to Gov. For Local Tranquille Patients

Decide to Continue to Ignore Requests for Payment of Both 1937 and this Year's Accounts—Will Ask Government for Right to Licence Liquor Stores

OKANAGAN municipalities will continue to sit tight on the question of payments to the provincial government on Tranquille Sanitarium accounts and will continue to file the bills as they are presented monthly by the government. Such was the decision of the Okanagan Municipal Association, representing municipalities from Kamloops to Penticton, which met at the Summerland Experimental Station on Thursday, June 23.

Refuse Both Accounts
Not only are the municipalities refusing to pay the 1937 accounts which they deemed unfair as the government had practically promised there would be no charges for Tranquille and none of the municipalities had budgeted for them, but they are refusing to recognize the 1938 accounts. It was suggested that the provincial government would probably deduct these accounts from any annual grants received, but the municipalities will not accept the principle of responsibility in respect to these accounts. "We're standing pat, let them come to us," characterized the decision of the mayors, aldermen and councillors present. Councillor Kinchin, Peachland, believed that with the travelling clinic going through the Valley the number of cases which need attention at Tranquille has multiplied many times over. B. C. Bracewell, Penticton municipal clerk, told of one Penticton resident Turn to Page 10, Story 2

Cherries to Reach Peak of Movement by End of this Week

Privy Council Sitting on Marketing Act Started On Tuesday

It is believed that the Privy Council case involving the fate of the Natural Products Marketing (B.C.) Act and the marketing boards set up in this province under the legislation was started on Tuesday, June 28. It is not known if the case has been concluded yet, as the only communication received in the Valley was a cable from W. E. Haskins when he landed in the Old Country on June 22.

Wendell Farris, K.C., is handling the presentation of the B.C. government's case, assisted by English counsel and W. E. Haskins, chairman of the B.C. Fruit Board, who made the trip to answer any questions concerning the operations of the boards under the Act. Mr. Haskins left Kelowna on June 9, sailed from Quebec on the Empress of Australia on June 15.

Wonderful Quality
In the Okanagan, the quality of the cherries was never excelled, Mr. McCulloch said. Turn to Page 6, Story 7

Expect to Reduce Insurance Rates for Municipalities by Collective Bargaining Policy

Okanagan Municipal Association Ratifies Principle of Collective Bargaining—Asked to Appraise Municipal Buildings with Competent Contractor and Municipal Clerk

COLLECTIVE bargaining, deemed the most feasible method of obtaining lower rates of insurance, was given the authorization of the Okanagan Municipal Association at its session in Summerland last Thursday, following an interim report by George W. Sutherland, Kelowna alderman and a member of a special committee appointed by the municipalities to investigate the fire insurance problem.

Any idea of forming a municipal insurance company to operate for the Okanagan municipalities has been abandoned now, it was learned at the meeting, but the delegates seemed of the decided opinion that the fire insurance rates being paid by the Interior municipalities are too high and can be cut down considerably by "shopping around."

Appraise Buildings
With this object in view, it was decided that each municipality will appoint a competent contractor, who will work in conjunction with the local city or municipal clerk, and estimate the appraised value of each building or motor vehicle which is insured by the municipalities.

Alderman Sutherland was emphatic in his statement that there would be a big difference shown between the book value and the actual appraisal value, as many portions of municipal buildings, for instance, are not taken into consideration when inspected by an adjuster following a loss, and need not be counted in the first estimate of the building value.

The special committee will prepare certain regulations for the appraisers to follow. After the information is tabulated and segregated according to protected and unprotected districts, the municipalities will be in a position to approach the fire insurance companies and obtain a reduction in the rates, Mr. Sutherland declared.

This committee originally consisted of Alderman Sutherland and Alderman Wilde, Vernon, but Mayor Jones pointed out that the latter man had been

Destruction of Forests Have Vital Effect on Every Person

Rotary Speaker Urges Each Play Part in Preventing Forest Fires

"The forests of this province were given for use and not abuse and every acre that is burned has a definite effect upon the prosperity of the province and the whole Dominion," Col. M. V. Allen of the provincial forestry department told the Rotary Club in a stirring address on the value of the forest.

Col. Allen, who has been connected with the provincial forestry branch since 1910 and who for thirteen years was located at Vernon before being moved to Nelson, emphasized the importance of protecting our forests by displaying a number of products which are made from the spruce of this province. These included such every day articles as cellophane, paper, various cloths and even men's suiting.

Col. Allen stated that in his opinion the conservation of the forests was one of the most urgent, and yet one of the most needless, problems facing the people of this province. He pointed out that a hundred and thirty-three years ago when Fort McLeod was established and the commercial life of this province started, the forest played an important part inasmuch as it was the

The announcement that a new ferry will be constructed at once and will be ready to replace the Holdup before next season will be greeted with genuine satisfaction not only by the people of Kelowna and district but also by those of the entire Okanagan Valley. While it is true the ferry is at Kelowna, it is also a truth that any chain is only as strong as its weakest link and the Holdup has been the weakest link in the Okanagan highway system. Every vehicle travelling through the Valley must use the ferry service.

During the past few months many persons have exerted their influence towards finding a solution for the ferry problem, and on occasion, when misunderstanding beclouded the minds of one party or the other, there appeared to be serious danger of a definite antagonism developing between the government on one hand and the people of the Kelowna district on the other.

Capt. C. R. Bull, M.L.A., has been pressing steadily for an improvement in the service and has been constantly in touch with the powers that be and, doubtless, having their sympathetic ear, it was ultimately his voice which carried the final weight. In his efforts towards obtaining a new ferry he has been assisted by a courteous but steady correspondence between the board of trade and the department of public works, keeping the latter body informed as to local opinion on the matter. The Courier, itself, has endeavored to present the seriousness of the local ferry picture fairly and in one instance, at least, it is believed that it was able to give the provincial authorities entirely new and valuable information; information which gave them an entirely new outlook upon the situation. If The Courier has been of any assistance in the matter, it obtains a deep satisfaction in the knowledge that it has been able to be of service to the Valley.

While the announcement that a new ferry is to be constructed and tends to overshadow other details, an equally important fact is that an official of the department of public works will be in this city in the very near future to arrange for an auxiliary service during the period when there is a heavy movement of fruit this year. This announcement is of vital importance to the service this year and is evidence that the provincial authorities are fully aware of the situation here. It is probable that adequate arrangements will be made to facilitate movement of all traffic during the rush season and all evidence would seem to point that the provincial government, fully cognizant of the situation, plans to do its utmost to rectify it.

Dominion Day, 1938

Tomorrow from the Atlantic to the Pacific, the uniting of the British provinces in North America into one whole to form the Dominion of Canada, will be celebrated. Half a dozen scattered colonies along the Atlantic, the St. Lawrence and the Great Lakes were brought together and told that henceforth they were to live as one. There were many centres of interest as there were colonies and as many schools of thought, but each determined to subordinate self that the whole might be greater. For a hundred years there had been constant bickering, and at times bitter enmity, between the various settlements and the proponents of the British North America Act fondly hoped that the new scheme would produce complete harmony.

Seventy-one years have passed and tomorrow as we celebrate Dominion Day we must sadly reflect that 1938 sees the sections of the Dominion in greater disharmony than at any previous period in the near-three-quarters century since Confederation. The Fathers of Confederation dreamed great dreams. They envisioned a strong united nation with one central government and a number of local secondary and subsidiary provincial governments to handle the affairs pertaining to a particular locality.

Today we find the provincial governments too strong. So strong that they have usurped, or desire to, many of those functions of government which we are sure the Fathers of Confederation, had they known of the changing conditions, would have delegated to the central government.

Today the provinces are in themselves powerful states and the provincial governments are desirous of gathering more and more authority to themselves. This constant clashing of authority and the resultant bickering between provinces and Dominion is rapidly creating a divided nation. There are some who feel that it would be a fine thing if this province were separated from the rest of the Dominion. They are mesmerized by the fine sound of the title "Dominion of British Columbia." However the majority of us recognize that the destiny of this province lies with that of the other eight.

Sectionalism is more rampant in Canada today than it has been for half a century. During the past few years the provincial governments have made their people province-minded by their constant clashes with Ottawa. Intentionally or not, they have taken the narrow view of things and, naturally, have drawn a certain section of public opinion to them. Should the Fathers of Confederation look upon the country today, they would shake their heads in despair. But they need not despair yet. By far the large majority of the people are Canadians before they are Ontarians, Quebecers, or British Columbians. The provinces may yet rant and storm, but, when the issue is put to the test they will learn in no uncertain manner that the Canadian people still feel with the Fathers of Confederation that provincial authority should be secondary, and subsidiary to, that of the Dominion government.

Citizens Must Co-operate

With a thousand people to be housed during the Liberal convention here in August, the householders must realize that the accommodation of this city will be taxed to the utmost. Already hotel accommodation has been completely booked and it is evident that the committee in charge of billeting must turn to the private householder for assistance.

There are many people in the city who will not object to accommodating as many of the delegates as they comfortably can. They will be glad to pick up the extra cash which their efforts will bring them. There are, however, a large number of other people who will weigh the money against the "bother" and be inclined to ignore the pleas for assistance. To these people we would point out that a large part of the reputation of the city rests with them. Nothing can ruin the success of a convention more quickly than poor billeting arrangements. Nothing can give a city a poor name more quickly than to have a thousand persons return to their homes throughout the province and broadcast the fact that they had very poor accommodation, or none at all, in Kelowna. Conventions leave much money in a city and every city strives to obtain as many conventions as it can. Conventions boost business and a successful convention means good advertising for the city where it was held.

Any city which can gain the reputation of being "a good convention city" is to be envied and it is a mark towards which Kelowna might well aspire. But for Kelowna to achieve this reputation the householders must extend their entire co-operation. For this reason we would suggest to those householders who are somewhat hesitant about saying they will accommodate one, two, or more delegates during the Liberal convention, that it is their patriotic duty so to do. While it is true that they will be adequately recompensed for their trouble, it is nevertheless also true that they will be making a gesture of loyalty and co-operation to their city.

By far the greater portion of the thousand visitors will have to be accommodated in private homes. The job is squarely up to the women of Kelowna who, The Courier is confident, will rally to the cause.

Strikers Call The Tune

The riot which followed the eviction of the striking jobless from the Vancouver postoffice and art gallery has had the usual aftermath of indignation demonstrations and inflammatory charges. It is not necessary to sift and separate these to adjudge the incident itself. So far as the strike and the position of both sides are concerned, the facts have been clear for some time. Indeed, it had long been obvious that the "sit-down" could have no other ending if the men persisted in following the agitators in attempting to coerce the authorities into giving in to their demands.

That there had to be a riot is to be regretted and there is no question that public sympathy up to a point has been and is with the unemployed men. Years of unemployment, fruitless treks up and down the country in search of work that does not exist, will strain and twist the strongest minds. When one is up against the dead end it is much easier to follow agitators than to think for oneself. To this extent allowances must be made for their action, and have been made. The federal, provincial and local authorities were extremely patient in dealing with the sit-down. A large body of public opinion feels that in this they erred, and that the men should have been ejected the day they occupied the buildings. Considering only the nature of their action in occupying public buildings and holding them under threats of violence, a month was too long to have waited but in that time everything was done that could be done to show the strikers reason. These efforts were successful to the degree that more than half of the original number were persuaded to abandon the strike.

The men were "transients," and in offering them free transportation to their homes British Columbia was doing all that could be expected of it. Whatever sympathy might permit, it cannot be stretched to the limit of delivering up work in response to mob demands. If that were the order of things the taxpayers would soon find themselves on relief, and anarchy could have the field.

The principle involved at Vancouver is precisely the principle at issue in the C.I.O. strikes in the United States last year. In these authority gave way to lawlessness, and it is needless to recall the disorders which swept the nation. There cannot be a law for the unemployed because they are unemployed, and another for the working people. To establish the precedent would be to invite every dissatisfied group in the country to take the law into its own hands and attempt to bully the public, through its governments, into surrendering to impossible demands. Such tactics would have to be opposed some time. Better at the beginning.

We cannot help but feel sympathetic towards the position of the provincial government in this matter. The majority of the trouble makers are not B.C. men. Past records show that by far the greater number of unemployed B.C. men are able to find work during the summer months. The record also shows that a large percentage of the Vancouver trouble makers are men who were dissatisfied with the relief camps and who had planned many months ago to be taken care of this summer, come what may. One is forced to the conclusion that many of the men in Vancouver have no real desire to find employment. They find the B.C. climate very suitable to their type of life and flock here from other sections of the Dominion and expect B.C. taxpayers to see that they are kept in their idleness. The provincial authorities feel, quite rightly, that the responsibility rests with the Dominion government and seek to have that body assume its responsibility. The provincial government recognizes that, if it once weakens, it is lost and that it will be flooded with transients from all sections of the country.

The situation cannot be adequately rectified until the Dominion government assumes its responsibility in the matter of the transient-unemployed men which, because of the salubrious climate, flock into this province.

The program of road work announced by the provincial government throughout the Okanagan should, when completed, greatly facilitate traffic between Penticton and Kelowna. Indications point to nearly ten miles of the Kelowna-Vernon road being put in a shape suitable for traffic.

Lights Along The Shore » » »

Those who fare forth along the sea or lake coasts, whether in sailing vessel, yacht, coastal steamer or the palatial floating homes which serve travellers, learn, unless they instinctively are aware, of the indispensable value of the beacons and warning lights which mark dangerous areas, forbidding shores and snug harbours. Even the novice, the proverbial land-lubber, would never suggest the folly of disregarding these signals, everyone of which is individually distinguishable by the captains and pilots, and each of which speaks, silently or by warning bell, a language easily understood and fully comprehended.

A brief but unwhipped errand took us along the coast recently, requiring two nights "at sea." Standing on the deck in the darkness, with fog banks drifting confusingly in the leisurely breeze, my thought turned to the man standing in the shelter of the pilothouse far above. I did not know his name and, had I passed him elsewhere on the boat he would have been indistinguishable, at least to me, from the other officers. And then the thought came that I did not need, having confidence in him because of the responsibility imposed upon him, to know him personally or intimately.

In a community or a nation where the power and right of selection resides in peoples or in institutions conscious of the fact that they are solely responsible for the acts of those chosen to represent or act for them in the routine of ordinary procedure or in times of emergency, care is exercised in choosing those who stand in the position of pilots or managers or executives. Carelessness or indifference cannot be hazarded in the initial or final steps of selection and authorization. It must be assured, and that definitely, that those who guide the boat, be it small or great, must observe, in daylight or darkness, in fog or storm or cloud, the warning signals which mark dangerous shoals and safe harbours.

Existence in this busy world would be less comfortable and less happy were it impossible to rest upon the assurance that even those in whose selection no direct part are actually wisely chosen and that they deserve and merit the confidence reposed in them. This assurance is the dividend we all receive from the maintenance of orderly government and an orderly society. The margin, it sometimes seems, between the ranks of those who keep step in the march of civilization and the disorderly fringe of the hordes of camp-followers, snipers and spoilers, is narrow and quite indefinite. Alarmists tell us that at many points along the lines there are overlappings, confusions, and strange interminglings. These warnings are more frequent than in recent years. They are alarming to a degree if one does not reassure himself or herself that wisdom and good judgment have not deserted the councils of those who, in the last analysis, select the pilots of the boats and the directors of the line of march.

The traveler by sea or land or air exercises, individually, the right to select the course he takes and, by the same token, the pilot or engineer who is responsible for his safety and comfort along the way, and who is charged with the duty of delivering him, at the destination appointed. He has the faith and confidence to believe that he can choose wisely and well. But if it should appear, even after frequent happy experiences, that the man in the pilothouse, at the locomotive's throttle or at the controls of the airplane is inclined, rarely or often, to disregard the warnings of signals and beacons and to venture along this hazardous or admittedly dangerous ways, this confidence is destroyed.

The temptation seems to be, even in appraising the more important affairs which concern us, and which at the moment appear in some way to have gone amiss in the chaotic jumble of world events, to believe that we as individuals are impotent and powerless in the effort to readjust and re-establish distorted and unstable superstructures. But we should remember that just such ability rests in, as the responsibility rests upon, the individual. No power of direction or supervision is rightly asserted or exercised by those in authority except it is delegated by the individuals in a democracy collectively.

Those who are usually passive and content along the way seem apprehensive at times that those up lights along the shore.

Editorial Comment

The saddest of all the pictures of the recent unemployment disturbances in Vancouver is that of Dr. Lytle Telford, M.L.A., endeavouring to make political capital out of the situation. Dr. Telford has threatened to resign his seat in the legislature and hurried wild challenges in the direction of the provincial government in an effort to trick it into a ballot battle on the issue. Dr. Telford, of course, had at no time any intention of carrying out his threat. He knows that all public-thinking people deplore the recent situation in the coast city and he was only attempting to make a big fellow of himself in an effort to win a larger following. He was indulging in a little play-acting but it is a bit disgusting that he would pick such a stage for his miming.

An incident occurred on Okanagan Lake on Thursday night last which should serve as a warning to all boat operators on the lake. It so happened that a motor conked out and the party was drifting helplessly around the lake close to midnight, when the sound of an approaching motor boat was heard. A cloth was dipped in gasoline and a match applied and the improvised torch was waved frantically over one young man's head. The second boat passed unheeding, a flicker of a flashlight being the only indication that the flare was observed. The driver of the second boat doubtless was quite confident that there was nothing amiss, or else he would have circled a bit closer to investigate. However people do not wave burning rags around their heads from a boat at midnight just for the fun of the thing and it would seem that the driver of the second boat showed poor judgment in not pausing in his headlong course to investigate. All persons on the lake should go out of their way to ascertain on the slightest suspicion that there is nothing wrong with another boat.

DID YOU EVER HEAR of "Little Boxing Day"? No? Well I had never either until the other day . . . One of the leading citizens of our fair city buttoned-hole me and started to tell me that I should commence an agitation for "Little Boxing Day". Now, I knew that Boxing Day was the day following Christmas and is set aside to permit all you chaps who gorge yourselves beyond the limit of commonsense to recoup a little before you go back to work. I suppose the merchants realize that if they did drag you back the day following Christmas you would be more of a liability than an asset . . . But what of Little Boxing Day? . . . As this Prominent Citizen shot his sales talk at me, with one section of my mind I was reasoning that if Boxing Day came after Christmas, a Little Boxing Day should come after New Year's Day. If Boxing Day is supposed to allow you a little time to recover from your Christmas dinner, what then should Little Boxing Day allow you to recover from? I wouldn't know . . . But according to my friend, the Prominent Citizen, Little Boxing Day is something badly needed in this section of the Dominion. It seems that a holiday after New Year's Day is urgently needed and most essential to the health and well-being of the good citizens of our fair city . . . If Prominent Citizen can be believed . . . I am inclined to think he has something there . . . His motives must be altruistic for he is governed by no set hours for going to work and his hours for coming home are less definitely stipulated . . . No harried time-clock puncher is Prominent Citizen . . . As a matter of fact there are some heartless souls who would willingly swear that he simply coins money and does not work at all . . . Far be it from me to suggest such a thing and I hasten to point out that I only mention these things to build-up my arguments that there should be a Little Boxing Day . . . My Gosh! I had thought I had talked away from that but here it is back on my lap again. I heard so much about a certain round of golf and this Boxing Day idea all in the one conversation that, in self defense, I promised. Prominent Citizen that I would advance the idea . . . Here it is. Prominent Citizen's idea is now available to the two readers of this column . . . Oh, Yes! there are two, Smartly! . . . They can do what they like with it. I have done my part. Still if Prominent Citizen succeeds in persuading the Retail Merchants Bureau that Little Boxing Day should be observed, I will not object. In fact, I think definitely he has something to argue about. It has been my experience that a holiday after New Year's Day is much more essential than one after Christmas . . . You see I do not EAT too much at Christmas . . .

THE FIERY CROSS Burned brightly on Thursday night. Beacons shouted warning as the alarms echoed from Knox Mountain to Manthatten Beach and reached to Black Knight and the police station. The city was aroused and scores of people gathered at Manthatten Beach to assist in launching boats or to stand trying vainly to pierce the darkness in the direction from which emanated loud and frantic calls for help. The police were notified that at least a score were drowning. The fire station was warned to have the pulmotor ready for action. Frantic mothers who found that their sons and daughters had not as yet come home, had them already buried in a watery grave in Okanagan Lake . . . All because George Haskins entertaining various co-mates and brothers in exile, had failed to carry a pair of oars . . .

IT SEEMS THAT GEORGE, buoyed by the enthusiasm of youth and the supreme confidence in any possession which youth alone can know, started with three others up the lake in his outboard kicker . . . Returning shortly before the midnight hour off Manthatten a wandering demon in the spirit of fun, stop-take a pair of oars along. Now nothing can be more annoying than an outboard which refuses to work and, as George worked he also talked and it is said that the temperature in the Manthatten district rose alarmingly about this time. In fact, it is said that it was the extreme heat and not the calls for help which finally aroused the early retirers at Manthatten . . . The mere calls for help . . . Here too, it is hinted, that the three occupants of the boat shouted solely as a means of self defense against George's conversation with the motors and not so much from a desire to be rescued . . . Be that as it may, the shouts for help echoed across the water until they were broken by the roar of a second boat. A piece of cloth was dipped into the gasoline and a match applied and George frantically waved the torch high, but the boat breezed merrily past, the twinkling of a flashlight being the only indication that the torch had been seen . . . It is said that the temperature rose again mounted several degrees as George started back to work on the motor and the others started to raise their voices for aid . . . Their cries were heard this time. "Some light sleeper at Manthatten Beach heard them and aroused the other residents. The police were phoned and by the time half a dozen boats were launched half a score of the city . . . figuratively speaking of course, lined the beach. Frantically the boats were shoved into the water and men, in various stages of night attire, rowed desperately, trying to sound the cries . . . The drifting boat was located and just as the first rescue craft was approaching and within a few feet, George gave one last crank to his motor, the playful demon flew away and . . . say it softly . . . the motor started. They tell me George had a great deal of explaining to do and there still are some who feel he was in a playful mood and thought the whole thing up for the sole purpose of disturbing their sleep . . . George thought seriously about taking a long, long holiday far away from Kelowna but although he did decide against it, he is still wondering who called his boss up about two a.m. and asked where George was. . . .

r p m

WHILE THE ABOVE incident ended without any serious consequences another over the week-end had not such a happy ending . . . There are in every community a group of men who may be called "solid citizens" . . . Sunday's misadventure concerned one of the Kelowna men who quite rightly might be classed in that group. If you see Mr. Solid Citizen limping badly in the left foot . . . or is it the right? . . . You will know that he is the chap who had his whole Sunday ruined . . . It seems that there was a picnic and picnics usually mean a swim and to swim it is the usual thing to disrobe and lay aside the various impedimenta which you may happen to wear besides the ordinary run of clothing. Mr. Solid Citizen enjoyed his swim but that was the last part of the day he did enjoy. When he started to dress he found that he had lost . . . one toe sock. They tell me that seventeen persons sought frantically for several hours large boulders were moved about, no toe sock. Solid Citizen's day was ruined. By the time he reached his home he was limping badly. Some do say that they believed he had put both toe socks on the one big toe but I find it hard to believe that Mr. Solid Citizen is that solid in the bean. A reward is being offered for the return of the toe sock. It must be the one that was lost, and one old one will not do. It seems that no other will quite suit that big toe quite so well. As a matter of fact so attached had Solid Citizen become to it that, it is said, that he even wore it to bed and could only with difficulty be detached from it when it was time to have it washed. Anyway, if any kind-hearted soul sees a toe sock walking lonesomely down Bernard Avenue all by its lonesome kindly call the dog catcher and have it retained in the city pound. Notify the writer of this column and we will see if Solid Citizen's limp can be cured and his broken heart mended. . . .

MAKING CANADA A Better Place in Which to Live and Work

A Series of Letters from Distinguished Canadians on Vital Problems Affecting the Future Welfare of Canada

Specially Written for Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association

I think it is important for the rural newspapers of this country to be sure of facts before casting aspersions upon people in business.

I think there is a tendency to follow any city newspaper opinion on matters affecting economic welfare and business interests. There is too, a tendency to take at face value the allegations of politicians.

One suggestion I have to make is that in the interests of good citizenship, good administration and good business that the rural weekly newspapers, before passing judgment upon people who may be publicly attacked, or alleged to be guilty of improprieties, should ascertain the facts more completely than seems to have been often done in the past.

I believe there is, too, general disposition to discredit people of affairs, and to assume that businesses of size and people of tax-paying capacity and those responsible for the employment of considerable staffs should be made the object of unreasonable legislation, restrictions and impositions.

Perhaps I may illustrate this by giving you some figures of our own experience in taxation and imposts.

In 1931, when we sold more goods than in any years since, our total taxation and imposts were $2,254,000. In 1937 this total had risen to $3,880,000. The extra $1,626,000 was, of course, paid largely by the consumer one way and another. These extra imposts can be traced in some measure to the political agitator.

It is most unlikely that property owners, persons of large affairs in business, large taxpayers, or large employers can hold any sort of creditable reputation in the face of this disposition.

Matters are different in the Old Country. The attitude there towards business is to foster it, to allow it to prosecute its legitimate aims and service, and at the least expense and with a minimum of legislative restriction. The consequence of this is that Great Britain today is probably showing the world, unless it be a little country such as Belgium whose institutions and trade are even now freer than Great Britain.

I think the rural weekly newspapers in Canada have it in their hands, more than any other agency, to offset the agitator and the radical movements resulting in legislative restrictions and higher imposts of taxation. These unreasonable exactions are of doubtful effectiveness and destroy the confidence necessary to prosecute further development and wider employment.

PEACHLAND GIRL SAVES SMALL BOY FROM DROWNING

Dorothy Gaynor Rescued Marvin Bortee From Lake

A heroic rescue was effected in Peachland when Dorothy Gaynor jumped in the lake and rescued Marvin Bortee who was going down for the third time.

A number of children were playing around the wharf in their bathing suits when someone pushed Billie Bortee in the water. In trying to save himself he dragged his brother Marvin in to the water. Billie was able to scramble to shore, but Marvin could not swim. His predicament was unnoticed by the children standing by until Dorothy Gaynor, who had been away from the wharf, came running back and without hesitation jumped in to pull him out. He was none the worse for his experience.

A heavy rain fell in Peachland on Friday which did a great deal of good but fortunately did no harm to the cherries which are now being picked. Bings are good this year and the cherry season is early and in full swing.

MUNICIPALITIES TO CONVENE AT SALMON ARM

Kelowna Invitation to Okanagan Municipal Association Withdrawn In Face of Request

ENDERBY ACCEPTED

Summerland Experimental Station Proves Splendid Setting For Meeting of Delegates

Invitation of Mayor C. Thomson extended to the Okanagan Municipal Association to hold its next meeting in Salmon Arm was gratefully accepted by the association. In Summerland last Thursday afternoon, the date set by the executive, Kelowna had intended to extend an invitation but withdrew in view of Salmon Arm's request, as the Association has never met in the latter city before.

The lovely grounds of the Summerland Experimental Station made a splendid setting for the Okanagan Association meeting last week. The delegates who arrived from Kamloops, Salmon Arm, Enderby, Armstrong, Vernon, Glenora, Kelowna, Peachland, Penticton, and Salmon Arm and Spallumcheen districts were met by Reeve C. E. Bentley of Summerland and his councillors.

Reeve Welcomes Visitors

Following a delightful cold lunch, Reeve Bentley welcomed the visitors to Summerland and called upon Mayor O. L. Jones, president of the Association, to thank the ladies who had prepared the lunch. R. C. Palmer, superintendent of the Experimental Station, extended a welcome to the Station and explained that it is really every citizen's Station and should be made full use of by all residents in the Valley. It had been planned at first to have the meeting in the Legion hall, but due to the heat of the day it was decided to convene in an open-air pavilion near the lunch room at the Station, and this arrangement was found to be quite successful.

At the outset, Chairman Jones paid tribute to the late Mayor F. L. Sugden of Armstrong, who passed away a short time ago. A standing tribute was paid by the delegates present and a letter of condolence will be sent to the deceased's family.

Enderby's application for membership in the Association was formally accepted by the meeting.

Since the appointment of directors, Reeve W. G. Wilkins, Penticton, had tendered his resignation, on the grounds that he could not devote sufficient time to attend meetings of the executive. Mayor Jones, however, noted that the executive really forms a contact committee to represent different districts and asked him to reconsider. On this basis, the Penticton reeve allowed his name to continue.

Discuss Meat Inspection

It was announced that Dr. H. E. Young, provincial health officer, wished a representative of his department to address the next meeting of the Association and the meeting endorsed such a proposal. Mayor H. Bowman, Vernon, called the delegates' attention to the need of a meat inspector throughout the Valley and it is likely that this subject will form one of the chief topics for the Salmon Arm meeting.

The meeting instructed the secretary, G. H. Dunn, Kelowna city clerk, to forward a letter of appreciation to R. C. Palmer, Experimental Station superintendent, for the courtesies extended the delegates. A vote of thanks to Reeve C. E. Bentley and his Summerland council for their preparations was received with applause.

Delegates present last Thursday included:

Mayor Adair, Armstrong; Mayor Charles Hawkins, Ald. C. E. Richards, Enderby; Reeve G. C. Hume, Councillor W. R. Hicks, Glenora; Aldermen S. Spencer, G. H. Ellis, Kamloops; Mayor O. L. Jones, Aldermen A. Cather, G. W. Sutherland, City Clerk G. H. Dunn, Kelowna; Councillors F. Kinchin, A. J. Chidley, Municipal Clerk C. C. Inglis, Peachland; Reeve W. G. Wilkins, Councillor J. W. Johnson, Municipal Clerk B. C. Bracewell, Engineer Art Pearson, Penticton; Mayor C. Thomson, Aldermen M. M. Carroll, H. T. Pardey, Urquhart and Day, City Clerk R. Ringford, Salmon Arm; Reeve M. Danes, Councillor Dickin, Municipal Clerk B. A. Wild, Salmon Arm district; Councillors C. J. Fisher, F. Fowler, Spallumcheen; Reeve C. E. Bentley, Councillors C. J. Huddleston, A. McLachlan, J. E. O'Mahoney, J. G. K. Robertson, Summerland; Mayor H. Bowman, Aldermen C. J. Hurt, D. Howrie, Vernon.

NOW DEHYDRATING FRESH VEGETABLES

Five Million Pounds of Dehydrated Apples Produced in Nova Scotia

The commercial utilization of under-ripe fruit is a matter of great importance in any fruit growing section of the Dominion and an intensive study has been made of the dehydration of apples in particular, in Nova Scotia, British Columbia, and Ontario. In these studies, the officers of the Dominion Experimental Farms Service have been in close co-operation with the apple-drying industry in these provinces.

Commercial scale production, by a process known as "evaporation," was started about 100 years ago, and, though superseded now to a great extent by dehydration the evaporation method is still widely used. Evaporation may be described as drying under conditions of partly controlled temperature and air flow.

Dehydration is the term applied to drying under conditions of controlled temperature, humidity, and air flow. A dehydrator consists of an insulated tunnel through which is forced a draught of heated air. The prepared fruit is spread on trays. The trays are stacked on trucks and the trucks pass through the tunnel, the product being dried on the trays during the passage through the tunnel, travelling with the current of air (parallel current system—or against the current (counter current system). In the former they enter at the hot end of the tunnel and finish at the cool end, and in the latter the reverse is the case. Both systems have certain advantages and disadvantages, but, after several years of work at the Dominion Experimental Station at Kentville, N.S., in co-operation with the Nova Scotia industry, C. C. Eidl of that station succeeded in constructing what is actually a single tunnel, but which employs both parallel and counter current drying, utilizing the advantages of both. Selection of suitable varieties of certain sizes, pruning, trimming, coring, seed-culling, slicing, bleaching, and the grading of the finished product are all important steps in the manufacture of high-quality dried apples. All these have received the attention of the officers of the Experimental Farms Service who have been studying dehydration problems.

There are, however, other forms of dehydrators besides the tunnel type which have been developed by private individuals and firms and are being successfully operated. Some idea of the importance of the dried apple industry to the province of Nova Scotia may be gained from the fact that during the 1936-37 season the amount produced totalled over 5,000,000 pounds, requiring nearly 400,000 barrels of apples. Recently, two of the dehydrators of the type designed by C. C. Eidl of the Dominion Experimental Station, Kentville N.S., have been constructed in Ontario for the drying of vegetables and have proved as efficient for the purpose as for the drying of apples.

CHERRIES AND QUANTITIES OF EARLY VEGETABLES CHIEF SHIPMENTS FROM OKANAGAN, NEWS LETTER STATES

Finest Quality Crop of Strawberries on Record Being Picked in Kelowna Area—Hot, Dry Weather Is Still Retarding Grounds Crops

THE main movement of cherries is getting under way in the Okanagan this week and vies with the vegetable movement in importance. One of the finest quality strawberry crops ever produced in the Kelowna district is in full swing. Cherries are practically through in the southern end of the Valley and some apricots are being shipped. Following is the fourth in the series of Horticultural news letters issued from Vernon by the department of agriculture:

Armstrong, Vernon, Oyama, Okanagan Centre and Winfield

Since our last report weather conditions have continued very hot and dry, and in non-irrigated sections ground crops are showing keen distress. In irrigated areas all systems have been taxed to the limit to supply reasonably adequate quantities of water to cover the development of the fruit.

In tree fruits, development of the fruit has been normal and the drop is about complete in all varieties. The picking and shipping of sweet cherries is now under way with Bings going into the houses, and Lamberts and Royal Annes will be starting in the coming week. At the time of writing thunderstorms are general and are causing some concern to sweet cherry growers who are now afraid of loss by cracking. None of this trouble has so far developed, and conditions over the next two weeks will be the governing factor as far as splits are concerned.

In the vegetable crops there is at present a free movement of mixed cars with practically every variety of vegetable available with the exception of the late-maturing, hot-weather crops. The excessive heat over the last ten days has caused rather serious loss in the lettuce area through tip-burn and slime-rot. Early potatoes are coming in slowly to the local market, but it will be around the first of July before shipping quantities will be available. Development of tubers has been slow due to the extreme heat and drought. In field crops, harvesting of the first cut alfalfa is in full swing, yield is variable, some crops showing excellent tonnage and others very much on the light side. Fall wheat is now in the milk stage and appears fairly promising, but prospects for Spring grain fields are certainly not so bright. This condition, however, may change if sufficient moisture falls within the next week to 10 days.

In orchard and field pests the codling moth is very much in evidence and the early forms are now leaving the apples freely. Control sprays have been fairly consistent, and generally speaking much better applied. Aphids are quite general in the vegetable fields and dusting for control is becoming general. Grasshoppers have hatched strongly and there is prospect of a heavy infestation of this pest from the open ranges later in the season. European Red Mite is also prevalent in all orchard areas and it has been necessary to institute control sprays for this pest. A good steady rain is still the great need of all sections.

Kelowna
As reported June 23rd: The weather continues hot and dry. Fruit is sizing well and trees are making good growth. Spraying for first brood codling moth is completed. Thinner generally are destroying wormy apples. Strawberries are being harvested and processed. It is one of the finest quality crops harvested in this district. Raspberries will be a larger crop than early estimates indicated. Windrow cherries are being harvested to ship to the processing plants. Some Bings for shipment will be picked late this week or early next week, but generally they are immature.

Vegetable crops are growing rapidly. Early vegetables such as cabbage, beets, carrots, etc., are all available for shipment. Celery is being set out in the field.

Summerland, Naramata, Westbank and Peachland

As reported June 22nd: The weather still continues hot and dry. The air somewhat but added little to the moisture to the soil. Growers are irrigating carefully. Reservoirs are all full and it is expected that the water supply will see this crop matured.

The cherry crop harvesting has commenced. Early varieties are going to the processing plants. Bings will be moving to market the end of this week, and the quality will be good. Peaches are at the stoning stage and thinning is almost over. Pears and apples are now being thinned. Growers are endeavoring to grow and pick a quality crop of all fruits this year.

The third cover spray is being applied by many growers. Orchards appear fairly free from worm injury at present.

Penticton, Kaleden, Keremeos, Oliver and Osoyoos

As reported June 24th: The weather continues to be very hot and dry. A light thunderstorm passed over the Penticton district yesterday, but very little rain fell. The continued dry weather is causing shortage of irrigation water in some districts, and rain is badly needed for irrigation and for range and pasture lands.

Cherries for processing are coming in rapidly. Bings have started in Penticton and should be moving in quantity by the beginning of the week. Oliver and Osoyoos have passed the peak on cherries. The crop is of good quality and is being harvested under ideal conditions. A few apricots will be shipped this week-end but it will be at least a week before there is any quantity ready for the market.

A few field tomatoes were shipped from the Oliver-Osoyoos district yesterday, but will not be moving until about the first of July.

More About 1 EXPECT TO REDUCE

unable to devote much time to the study and he wished the committee enlarged. Mayor Hume, Glenmore, was asked to assist and he acquiesced, while Councillor J. W. Johnson, Penticton, was requested to send any information at his disposal, or suggestions, to the committee.

"There is little this committee can do unless we get the appraised value," stated Mr. Sutherland. It was understood at the meeting that the municipalities are not planning to devote any energy towards reducing rates for private companies or houses, but will seek reductions in rates paid by municipalities on their own buildings and equipment.

One company, Mayor Jones stated, would only accept the values of its company's appraisers, but it was not known if this attitude would be general.

Met Underwriter's Manager

Decision of the municipal delegates to continue their collective bargaining scheme was reached after a comprehensive discussion between the meeting and John Noble, manager of the B.C. Insurance Underwriters Association. Mr. Noble, who was holidaying in the Okanagan after attending the Fire Chiefs' College at Vernon, attended the meeting and gave an address on the activities of his board. He was called upon to answer a large list of questions fired by various delegates.

Mayor O. L. Jones was prominent in this discussion and quite frankly denounced the fire insurance game as a "racket."

At the outset Mr. Noble stated that he had never really known what the Municipal Association had in mind, and he was anxious to ascertain the difficulties confronting it. In British Columbia and throughout Canada and the United States there has been an abnormally low loss period for the past three to four years, he said.

At this point he explained that the B.C. Underwriters Association is really an actuarial bureau for 173 companies, with the object in view of co-operatively reducing insurance costs to the public. He urged the support of the newly formed B.C. Firemen's Association.

Over a stated period, Mr. Noble reported that the cost of losses in B.C. amounted to $29,000,000 and the operations of fire departments ran to $11,000,000. In Kelowna, he instanced, there are a wonderful lot of modern buildings being built in the heart of the city with a low humidity and wind, he considered the situation dangerous. He even shuddered dramatically at the thought of what might occur in the Kelowna packing house district.

"We want you to feel that we are a quasi-public organization," continued Mr. Noble, "in the line of the Underwriters' Association. It is a simple matter to reduce rates but it is difficult to raise them again. The average rate in B.C. has been reduced from 98 cents to 84 cents in the past three years."

Churches, he instanced, as one of the biggest risks faced by insurance companies.

Better Service Expected

"We have neglected the Okanagan in respect of service in the past few years because of lack of funds for service, but we believe that we can now pay more attention to the Valley's main centres and outlying districts."

At this juncture, Alderman Hurt, Vernon, asked Mr. Noble to define the difference between reserve and profit. Mr. Noble pays in a dollar, he explained, but we believe that we can now pay more attention to the Valley's main centres and outlying districts."

"I am still convinced that reserves are a profit, and I am dissatisfied with the way insurance is handled in the Interior," commented O. L. Jones, Kelowna. He told of one case where a business man, by shopping, reduced his insurance from $22 to $5. Although he was not convinced that the low charge of $5 was an economic feasibility, he still wished to show the spread in rates between companies.

Going Shopping

Mayor Jones felt that it is not fair to have nearly 200 companies operating in B.C., and if the companies do not co-operate then the public cannot be blamed for shopping around and obtaining the best price. "And we are going shopping," he said. He also made

Preaches Here

REV. F. W. PATTISON, M.A.

Sunday, July 3 will mark the beginning of his summer ministry at the United Church of the well-known Baptist minister, the Rev. F. W. Pattison, M.A. Mr. Pattison has had a wide experience in the pastorate while he has also been known for his outstanding pulpit work. He was associated with that world-famous preacher Dr. G. Campbell Morgan at Westminster Chapel, London, England, while he had the distinction of being the minister of the church at Northfield, Mass., with which the well-known evangelist D. L. Moody was intimately associated during the last 25 years of his ministry. He has held charge in Summerland, Calgary and Brandon where he also served as Professor in the Theological College. Many in the city and in the community will welcome this opportunity of hearing this gifted preacher.

mention of the suggestion which had been made at one time of forming a co-operative municipal insurance company.

This latter suggestion aroused Mr. Noble's fervor, as he told of the city of Montreal which lost $3,000,000 in a private co-operative municipal insurance scheme. In Vancouver, he said, they are 58 firemen short of their requirements and there is no fireboat protection other than that of private companies. And yet, Vancouver's rate is lower than Toronto or Montreal so he considered some recognition should be given to the insurance companies for their work.

"No co-operative insurance scheme such as you have suggested has ever been a success in Canada," said Mr. Noble.

The statements made by Mr. Noble concerning Vancouver's lack of proper fire protection interested Rev. Wilkins of Penticton who considered that the loss ratio in the Interior is far lower than at the coast and yet the Interior has to pay for Vancouver's lack of protection.

Ridiculous Rates

"Our agents are giving service and we are not basing our rates on wrong information," replied Mr. Noble. "The rates on fruit warehouses in this Valley are ridiculous. They are marvelous rates. You can go shopping all right," he added, intimating that some insurance firms are price-cutting to a ridiculous level.

"We are definitely going shopping," interjected Mayor Jones. "We are going to segregate the sections into protected and unprotected and we are out to make the best deal we can." A short time later, Kelowna's mayor declared that the prevalence of overpayment of premiums is not straight business. It is a general complaint, he said, that the companies will accept any premiums but will only pay out on the amount of the value.

The fundamental of insurance is that the owner is being insured and not the building, replied Mr. Noble. With proper agents, the insured generally trusts them with the details of the policy, and few persons ever read their contracts. In the case of a fire, the owner must prove the loss, not the insurance company.

"Your agent should warn you that at the time of the fire is the basis of settlement," commented Mr. Noble. "You may have a $9,000 stock today, but four months later, when a fire occurs, you may only have a $7,000 stock. Any other basis of payment would be the greatest incentive to arson."

Threw Out Bill

Mrs. Steeves, C.C.F. member attempted to have legislation placed in the next session to allow for full settlement of the amount of the policy, he explained, but the attorney-general's department was aware of the arson hazard and threw out the bill.

"Any agent who knows that he is over-insuring should lose his licence," declared the Vancouver man. In referring to Mayor Jones' contention that the insurance business is a racket, he stated that if the Underwriters were to appraise every building insured the rates would have to be doubled, and so they endeavor to have reliable agents and place some faith in them.

Fixing of rates is a matter of arithmetical progression, and the Underwriters have tried to be fair between the maximum and minimum of risks, he explained.

Alderman Spencer of Kamloops brought up the question of the companies re-insuring municipalities for saving them thousands of dollars in losses on buildings just outside the city limits.

Mr. Noble was emphatic in his reply that the municipalities should not go outside their limits as they are leaving their own areas, to which they are responsible, temporarily unprotected. In areas outside the city limits, residents should help themselves and co-operate in providing some fire protection. As a general principle, unless the areas inside the city are threatened, the fire departments should not go outside, he said.

Unfortunately, Alderman Sutherland and Cathor, the former having been responsible for most of the data collected on the insurance question, did not arrive in time to hear all of Mr. Noble's remarks. Later in the meeting, when

Who are the owners and what do they do?

JIM BROWN, carpenter—your next-door neighbour—may be one of the supposed "Big Shots" who own the banks in Canada. He may own a couple of shares, or maybe only one.

Women, executors or trustees of estates, and retired people, comprise about 63 per cent. of the shareholders in one of Canada's banks, taken as an example.

Analysis of this particular bank, which may be regarded as typical, shows that women own nearly half of its shares. Farmers, merchants and professional men are the most numerous of the classes listed.

There are 260 occupations represented among the shareholders. They include:

Accountants, actors, barbers, bankers, bee-keepers, boat-builders, bricklayers, carpenters, cheesemakers, clergymen, dairymen, dentists, doctors, drovers, druggists, farmers, fishermen, forest rangers, funeral directors, grocers, insurance agents, jailers, journalists, linotypists, lobster buyers, miners, oil operators, plumbers, policemen, railway employees, ranchers, sailors, scalars, sheriffs, stenographers, stevedores, timber cruisers, tobacco farmers, trappers, and others.

These are among the folks who own the banks and so must be a part of that bogey with which some people seek to scare you—that fabled "international bankers' ring". They are mostly Canadians—your fellow-citizens—decent people like yourselves.

50,135 people hold the 1,445,000 chartered bank shares issued. Seventy out of every hundred shares are owned in Canada. The average share-holding is 23.8 shares—but all through the lists of bank shareholders you will find hundreds who own from one to five shares.

There is no concentration of ownership and power in the hands of any small group. These shareholders annually elect directors. There are 172 directors of Canada's chartered banks. Their addresses dot the map of Canada from coast to coast. They are men of proven business ability; their own success has proved their judgment good; that judgment is always alert in safeguarding your money.

Their business experience reinforces the skill and training of the salaried bank executives in conserving the interests of the depositors, note-holders and shareholders. Loans to bank directors, firms in which they are partners and loans for which they are guarantors, as of February 28th, 1938, did not exceed 1/100th part of the total loans made by the chartered banks. That is about the usual proportion. Monthly returns have to be made to the Government showing these borrowings.

No director may vote, or even be present at a meeting of the board when loans in which he has any interest are under discussion.

The law prevents a bank from doing certain things. A bank is prohibited from lending on mortgages, for loans must be of short term and quickly realizable.

A bank is forbidden to engage in trade. It must not buy, or lend against its own shares or the shares of any other chartered bank. No bank, bank director, or bank employee is allowed to hold shares in the Bank of Canada.

A bank must not let its name appear on certain prospectuses, nor may any of its staff represent insurance companies.

There are heavy penalties laid down for violation of any of these and other provisions of The Bank Act.

Your bank provides machinery for carrying out adequately the most widely varying, day-to-day transactions—financing farmer or factory, merchant or miner; simplifying business, facilitating the exchange of goods and services.

Canada's chartered banks are owned by your fellow-citizens, directed by men known as competent leaders of business and managed by able men risen from the ranks whose whole business life and experience has been in the bank.

They are at your service.

THE CHARTERED BANKS OF CANADA

Your local branch bank manager will be glad to talk banking with you. He will be glad to answer your questions, from the standpoint of his own experience. The next article in this series will appear in this newspaper. Watch for it.

Sport Gossip

By J. R. A.

The Sport of Kings! Yes, sir, that's what they call horse racing and if you disagree and want an argument, just go to Jack Ward or Vic Deffert, and they will supply with a couple of hours entertainment (if you have the time) informing you on just a few matters to support their contention. It really is marvelous what a difference a horse will make in any man. Your Gossiper always thought of Jack Ward as a retiring, shy type, but since he became obsessed with the horse racing fever he has not only come right out in the front lines, but has so convinced his fellow Gyros that it is the Sport of Kings that they are taking his advice and are going to stage a horse race meet on August 25.

But that is only part of the story. Jack has taken a fatherly interest in the Knox Mountain Park project. He organized a working gang of about thirty fellows and risked life and limb to chop down 500 rails. He had tired business men busily engaged in after hours hewing at the bark on the poles and scraping them clear so that they will provide suitable fences for the race track. He has obtained donations of plants and flowers and has enticed non-members of the Club with the idea to such an extent that they have pitched in and worked a few hours or have made valuable donations. And all this enthusiasm arose from the ownership of a thoroughbred.

And Vic Deffert is no less certain about the Sport of Kings. In fact, if you know Vic you will realize he is great deal more demonstrative than his pal Jack. For more than a year now it has always been a source of great wonder just who did own Keen Prince but the question has evidently been settled beyond all shadow of a doubt. Jack pays the feed bill so it is his horse. Flaming Youth is enough to keep Vic on the qui vive, at any rate, just paying for the amount of feed he consumes.

I will let you into a small secret. On Sunday morning, Vic took Flaming Youth out for a "blow-out" on the Knox Mountain Park track. Youth shied at a clump of grass, flung back his head and knocked out one of Vic's teeth and cracked another one. One did not dare approach Vic for two hours after this incident, and Flaming Youth had fallen from grace with a distinct bump.

But beyond all this tommyrot there is a purpose. The Gyros are planning a big race meet to coincide with the Liberal convention. It will be the first meet staged in Kelowna for years. It may be the forerunner of many other meets in years to come. The Gyros are not staging this event for the sole purpose of providing entertainment.

but to raise money for improvements to the Knox Mountain Park project. If all goes well, this eyecore as it has been for so many years will become a beauty spot. It will be a playground for the unfortunate youngsters who live in the north end of the city and are too far away from the city park athletic grounds to take advantage of its opportunities. The big hall is being fixed up for gymnasium purposes. In time the ball diamond in the oval will be put into first class shape, and many other improvements will be made. But this can only be accomplished if the Gyros obtain support for their horse racing endeavor. I'll place a couple of sawbones on Keen Prince, even if he does trail the field. Jack will probably slay me for even mentioning such a horrible thought.

Were you just as surprised as your Gossiper at the result of the Louis-Schmeling single rounder on Wednesday. If you weren't then you were about the only one in several millions who didn't gasp with amazement. It is the peculiar reaction of most persons to the result. Nearly every person I talked to about the fight commented on how those persons who played a C note drum for a ringside view of the world's heavyweight tangle must have felt at the end of two minutes, four seconds. Your Gossiper's reaction is that if a fight fan plunks down that much hay on the line for a view of a couple of bruisers then he can well afford it and has plenty of the do rah me jangling in his pockets so that a century note here or there makes no difference, anyway. Maybe that is a plutocratic way of looking at life, but it suits me. The mere fact that 80,000 persons will pay more than a million dollars to see a couple of bruisers with no more grey matter above the ears than can be estimated in small figures shows that we are all slightly hysterical after all, and are not much advanced from the days when the slaves were pitched in to the lions to save on the feed bill. Not that I would compare Der Max to a slave and Louis to a lion, because Hitler might read of it, and then where would I be. However, it was a sensational result and proves beyond any question of a doubt that the Brown Bomber packs one of the mightiest wallop in history, if he can connect solidly. The fight two years ago showed that Max could hand out a mule-kick if he got the opportunity but Louis never gave him a moment to even think up an excuse to hit. Several of the lads who were holding sweep tickets on Louis in the first and who howled mightily when they drew their ticket, are a bit sheepish now, but they collected their money without any qualms. This writer had a four-bit ticket on Louis in the fourth and thought it wasn't worth the small amount of cardboard. But just as in a ball game, you never can tell what may happen.

Maxie, the Clown, Baer, is now the only White Hope which looms on the skyline as a possible opponent for Louis, and there is a chance he may be fed to the lion in September. Your Gossiper will get out on a limb right now with the prediction that if Baer goes into the same ring with Louis his teeth will be chattering so hard they will soon be like a duo of ivory which the negroes are so fond of rattling. Baer will be licked from the start and will have no more chance than the proverbial snowball. In fact, how that Broadway cowboy has ever lasted in the ring as long as he has, is one of the greatest mysteries of present-day fighting. They are beginning now to start another search for a White Hope who may have a chance to clout the negro into submission, but their hunt will be a long and difficult one. It is only once in a lifetime that anyone manages to stumble across a Gene Tunney at the proper moment when a Jack Dempsey needs a trimming to keep up the public interest. Gene was a natural in the Dempsey days and he certainly had sense when he got out of the fight game and into the more intricate mining industry. He has been doing quite well in the mining game, they say, despite small side ventures such as into the South Okanagan.

VERNON DEFEATS KAMLOOPS
Climbing one more step in the Interior Baseball League, the Vernon senior team defeated the Kamloops club in a fiercely fought encounter in Kamloops on Sunday by 11-2.

KELOWNA SECOND FOR KAMLOOPS RIFLE SHIELD

Trophy Is Retained In Parent City By Margin Of Only Three Points

Kelowna riflemen made a gallant effort on Sunday to wrest from the possession of their Kamloops' confederates the splendid silver shield presented by the City of Kamloops a number of years ago for annual competition, and captured in 1932 and 1933 by the Orchard City. With a lead of three points at 200 yards, success seemed to be within the grasp of the Kelowna No. 1 team, but the 600 yards distance proved deadly as usual, and, profiting by their weekly experience with the idiosyncrasies of their local range, which are many and varied, the defenders of the fine trophy secured a lead of eight points at the final distance and retained possession by the narrow margin of three points.

With three teams of five and two spare men, Kelowna had much the largest representation of outside points at the meet. Kamloops had two teams, Vernon one, there were two composite teams made up of competitors from various points and two individuals, making a total attendance of forty-two. The weather, although close and sultry, with the sky lightly overcast and threatening a storm, was favorable, generally speaking, although mirage gave trouble at the longer distances, especially 600 yards, where a number of marksmen came to grief.

The Kelowna No. 1 team secured a fine average at 200 yards with a total of 158, and they kept up the good work at 500 with only one point less, but the 600 brought them down to 142, while Kamloops No. 1 team, which had scored 155 at each of the 200 and 500 yards distances, maintained their steady pace with 150 at 600 and thus held possession of the coveted trophy. Vernon scored the highest team total for any distance with 161 at 500 yards. The cup for individual aggregate was won by H. C. Ely, of Kamloops, who compiled a century with 33, 34, 33. C. Holmes, of Vernon, ran a good second with 31, 34, 33 for 98.

L. T. Swannell, of Kamloops, took first place at 200 yards with 34, a shoot off for second between four competitors with 33 each, giving the prize to F. C. Simmons, of Vernon. At 500 yards, H. Page Brown, of Armstrong, member of the Vernon team, and H. C. Ely, of Kamloops, tied with 34 each. The shoot-off was won by Brown.

At 600 yards, Holmes and Ely, with 33 each, shot off for first place, Holmes winning. J. R. Conway, of Kelowna, took third place, after shooting off a tie at 31 with six others.

Kelowna captured all three prizes in the tyro aggregate, G. W. Hammond being placed first with 92, G. Wyman second with 91 and D. McMillan third with 89.

The marking was satisfactory, if not very rapid, and challenges were few. Range supervision was exercised by Captain W. Dance with his usual efficiency, and entries, statistics and other details were in the experienced hands of C. R. Lee, secretary of the Rocky Mountain Rangers Military Rifle Association.

Galaxy of Tennis Stars Plan To Swoop Down on Kelowna for Interior Tournament Next Week

Mel Dranga, Seattle Ace, Expected to Defend Singles Title Against Youthful Vancouver Stars—Many Brilliant Women Stars Will Compete Here

A GALAXY of tennis stars are planning to swoop down upon this Orchard City next week to stage one of the most brilliant displays of the court game the local residents have ever had an opportunity to witness. The competitors are coming from all points of the compass, with Vancouver, Victoria, Seattle, Toronto, Regina, Trail and many other points to be heard from.

Mel Dranga, Seattle's star performer, is due to arrive from the coast city to defend his Interior of B.C. title which he won last year. The tournament, largest of its kind in the Interior, and second in importance only to the B.C. championships, starts on July 4 and ends with the finals on Saturday, July 9.

Due to oppose Dranga in the men's events are the two youthful, sensational stars, Russ Hawes and Jimmy Skelton. Colin Milne, a young member of the famous Milne family of tennis fame throughout the Dominion is another whose play is expected to be of the best. Tommy Berte, the well-known Jimmy Bardsley of basketball fame, Fred Bolton and Harry Shaw are expected to round out the contingent from the Terminal City.

Some brilliant stars from the feminine section of the Vancouver courts will converge on Kelowna next week, with Eleanor Young, newly-crowned Vancouver city champion, her partner for many years, Caroline Deacon, and Susie Milne, sister of Jean Milne who is at Wimbledon at present, being the main contenders. H. G. M. Gardner, president of the Kelowna tennis club holds out every hope that Mrs. Golda Meyer Gross, of Berkeley, California, will be present to give the Vancouver stars some of the stiffest type of competition.

Charles Jones and F. Richards of Winnipeg are on the lists of contenders, while Trail is sending Mr. and Mrs. Chessner, Mr. and Mrs. Weldon, "Windy" Williams and several others. Mr. and Mrs. A. Corner, of Toronto, who are visiting here are contestants, while Mrs. N. Thompson, Regina, is entered.

With this galaxy of stars assured, the success of the Interior of B.C. championships is settled definitely. Semi-finals will be played on Friday with the finals on Saturday afternoon. The annual tournament tennis club is being held at the Aquatic club on Friday evening, July 8.

H. G. M. Gardner is chairman of the tournament committee, with W. Metcalf as official referee, R. H. Stubbs, assistant referee, and D. Stubbs, treasurer. Members of the committee are Mrs. W. W. Pettigrew, Mrs. R. H. Stubbs, Miss M. Stubbs, O. S. P. Atkins, Miss A. Allan, F. W. Fritchman, F. Taggart, N. Izowsky and F. Williams.

AMERICANS WILL THROG BEAVER DEE LAKE CHAIN

This week-end, commencing July 1, accommodation at Beaver and Dee lakes will be at a premium as hundreds of Americans are expected to converge on these two fishing paradises. For the past two months the owners of the lodge concessions on these lakes have been receiving applications for cabins, tents and boats to enjoy the July 1 to 4 week-end, and by now there is practically no hope of obtaining any lodging space.

Last week-end was another successful one for these lakes, and hundreds of fish were captured. Larger fish than usual were taken from Beaver lake, some weighing four to five pounds, while Dee lake yielded some beauties weighing nearly six pounds. One Seattle party took out 125 fish from Dee lake over the week-end. Grizzly King, Carol Special, and sedge proved the most popular flies.

Mabel Lake is in fine fettle from a fishing standpoint, with finny specimens up to eight pounds being captured. It has another popular appeal to visiting parties as the lake is suitable for swimming. Some parties visited Belgo dam, up the Joe Rich, last weekend and report splendid fishing. Woods' lake is only fair as it has dropped off in the hot weather.

Annual Dinner
The customary annual dinner was held in the Maple Leaf Cafe on Sunday evening, with Capt. W. Dance in the chair and an attendance of about fifty, including Mayor C. E. Scanlan, Mr. R. H. Carson, M.L.A. for Kamloops, and Mr. B. A. Edwards, Chairman of the School Board, among the principal guests.

The Mayor presented the trophies and prizes to the winners and spoke in congratulatory terms. Other speakers called on by the chair included Mr. Carson, G. C. Rose, of Kelowna, N. M. Beaton, of Vancouver, Major F. Clark and R. M. Robertson, of Kamloops. D. E. McLennan, secretary of "B" Squadron, 1st B.C. Dragons, Military Rifle Association, Kelowna, expressed the enjoyment by the visiting Kelowna riflemen of the shoot and extended a cordial invitation to Kamloops to send a large representation to the Orchard City for the annual competition for the Gilbey Spey-Royal Shield and the Interior rifle team championship on August 28th.

The proceedings were curtailed to enable the visiting marksmen to return home at a reasonable hour and came to a close before eight o'clock with the singing of the National Anthem.

An interesting feature for old-timers was the exhibition by Major Clark of a group photograph of the competitors at the three-day Gold Range Rifle Association meet, held at Kamloops in 1911. Of these only a very small number alas! continue to follow the target game.

PITCHERS' BATTLE

Failure To Come Through In Pinches Costs Rutland Game by 4-1—Les Gould is Good

Summerland defeated the visiting Rutland nine on Sunday and stepped up into a tie for first place by the victory. The game was a tight one for four innings, neither side scoring until Summerland pushed over a run in the last half of the fifth. Rutland came back with a tying run in its half of the sixth, but an error, an over-throw, and a timely hit gave Summerland two more counters in the last half of the same inning. Summerland added a fourth run in the last of the seventh, no further score resulting in the last two innings.

Rutland had runners on the paths in most of the innings, but could not get the necessary hits in the pinch. In the ninth inning, with runners in a scoring position on second and third, Rutland again went scoreless, Gould's chucking proving too good for them. The game was more of a pitcher's duel, with the Summerland chucker having a slight edge, than a batter's game. Only one extra-base hit was made in the game, Fred Kitch clouting out a double in the fourth. Henry Wostradowski pitched a good game for the losers, but was a little wild, walking four men, while his team-mates contributed a few costly errors at critical moments.

7 LACK OF ACTION

Nair states, and in this he was collaborated by Art Lander, Sales Service sales manager, and Paul Hayes, Occidental manager. There are no splits to speak of, and therefore the full crop of cherries is being harvested.

In the southern districts which have already completed their harvesting, original estimates have been doubled, and other districts will probably come close to these figures. Only Bings and Lancets are being shipped to the fresh fruit markets, other varieties going into the processing plants. Besides that, twenty per cent of the Lambert cherries were ordered placed at the disposal of the processors.

Prices will have to be adjusted in keeping with the greatly increased deliveries and due to the shortness of the season, Mr. McNair states. The cherries are pouring in now and the season, due to the dryness of the weather and the brilliant sunshine, will be short, indeed.

Holiday Disturbing

The three-day holiday this week-end has disturbed distribution and the general mixed car business is slack, given due to lack of distribution available.

In order to stabilize the cherry delivery arrangements have been made to prorate shipments of cherries by shipping companies representing some 90 per cent of the tonnage, at least. These are Associated Growers, Sales Service, Occidental, B.C. Fruit Shippers, Vernon, Okanagan Packers, B.C. Orchards, Mc-Lean & Fitzpatrick and Okanagan
Fruit Shippers.

CHERRY STEALERS IN COURT

Two young cherry stealers were arraigned before Magistrate McClelland in police court at Penticton recently and found that the police warnings were not made in fun. They were assessed the costs of the court and given a severe lecture by the magistrate, who warned that further offenders would be more severely dealt with.

if the satisfactory German deal had not materialized near the end of the season and relieved an otherwise gloomy perspective.

E. J. Chambers, Associated Growers
president, made the prediction in Vernon following the release of the one-desk figures that the McIntosh crop would probably average 45 cents per box. The McIntosh covers practically one-third of the Okanagan crop, and from this figure a fair criterion of the net results may be obtained, it is indicated.

Audited Statements

All details of the one-desk pool, which has been audited by R. G. Rutherford & Co., Kelowna auditors, have gone forward to the shippers of the Valley. They were sent out from the grower company's office by mail on Tuesday afternoon, and by Wednesday morning every shipper was busily engaged in closing his books and preparing for a final payment to the growers on a wind-up of the 1937 crop season.
It is anticipated that most shippers will have final returns out to their growers by the first of next week.

It is generally conceded that shippers who made good deals on the Old Country market will have fair returns for the growers, but for those whose Old Country returns were not satisfactory
the deal will be far from encouraging, as fifty per cent of the five-million box
crop was shipped export.

The staff of the B.C. fruit Board has been working night and day for the past month in order to wind up the one desk deal. The task of segregating the enormous amount of figures involved in the deal was under the control of
G. E. Brown, Fruit Board accountant and L. R. Stephens, who moved from his Sales Service office to the one-desk committee's office in Vernon last December and has been working on the special set-up ever since.

Terrific Task

With the one-desk arrangement coming as it did in the middle of the season, the task of segregating the various crop portions was a terrific one.
Each shipper has ten days in which to file any complaint as to the final outcome of the pool closing, but it is not anticipated that any major difficulty will be confronted as each shipper has been given a check-up prior to the final closing of the accounts.

The 910,799 boxes in the pool were made up of the following varieties:
McIntosh, 347,888; Delicious, 160,154;
Newtowns, 34,481; Romes, 178,062;
Stanway, 19,265; Winesaps, 19,327;
Spitzenbergs, 7,402; Winter Banana,
18,070; Wagner, 17,198; Golden Delicious, 2,032; Spies, 17,537; Grimes, 6,320;
Jonathans, 2,495; sundries, 39,169.

Of these varieties, practically the entire crops of McIntosh, Delicious, Newtowns, Stanway, and Winesaps were packed but only a small proportion of the other varieties went other than face and fill.

FORMER RESIDENT WELL KNOWN HERE DIES IN IRELAND

Thomas L. Gillespie Lived at East Kelowna for Thirty Years
—Student of Languages

Many old friends in the Kelowna district will learn with deep regret that Thomas Leslie Gillespie, who resided at East Kelowna for many years, died in a nursing home in Dublin on June 2nd from a heart attack after a period of impaired health. He underwent an operation for appendicitis in London in February from which he appeared to make a good recovery at first, but in April he took a turn for the worse and he weakened rapidly.

Born at Stillorgan, Dublin, Ireland, sixty-one years ago, Mr. Gillespie came to the Okanagan some thirty years ago and settled at East Kelowna, where he operated an orchard for about four years, selling it in 1928. During his residence in that district he took a keen interest in public affairs and served for several terms as a member of the Board of Trustees of South East Kelowna Irrigation District.

A student all his life, Mr. Gillespie had devoted himself during the past ten years to reading, especially the study of languages, and travel and had seen much of the world. He spent nearly two years in Australia and he travelled extensively over Europe. A friend who visited him in hospital in London during February last found him engaged in reading the works of Tolstoy in the original Russian, and while in Vienna two years ago he renewed his knowledge of German. He wrote of his travels in a very interesting and gossipy style, and readers of The Courier will remember that extracts from his letters were published from time to time.

In his youth Mr. Gillespie was a skilled rifleman and he represented Ireland at Bisley on the Irish Eight. He served during the war as a member of the 30th B.C. Horse on internment camp duty, being physically unfit for overseas service.

Mr. Gillespie paid several visits to Kelowna within the past ten years, the last occasion being about four years ago. He had intended to visit Russia this summer and afterwards to come to Kelowna, but ill health intervened.

JUDGE DISALLOWS JAPANESE CLAIM

Ladd Garage Ltd., Defence Is Upheld in County Court Action

Judge J. D. Swanson disallowed a claim for recovery of a net amount of $273.38 in County Court here last week, made by Einosuke Ueyama, a Japanese against the Ladd Garage Ltd., and allowed a counter-claim established by the garage company against the Japanese for $320.

The civil action arose out of a purchase of a truck by Ueyama in June, 1937, from the Ladd Garage, for $1,600.
A short time later the Japanese told J. J. Ladd that the truck was too big and he would like to turn it in and obtain a smaller wheel-base model.

In late October the Ueyama truck was sold to Sidney Johns for $1,600 less the amount of a trade-in on an old model. Ueyama was allowed $1,500 for his truck, the Ladd Garage settling the equity owing to the finance company out of the $1,500.

There was a net sum left of $626.82
which Ueyama, according to the Ladd Garage defense, agreed would be placed towards the purchase of a new truck. The Japanese is said to have settled the terms of the new purchase and the garage ordered the new truck, agreeing to place the $626.82 towards the purchase, despite the fact that the Japanese owed $347.44 for repairs.

Some two weeks after this latter agreement, Ueyama told the Ladd Garage that he wished to cancel the agreement and obtain the net sum owing to him.

The Ladd Garage refused as the new truck had been ordered, and the previous transaction had been made on the agreement that Ladd would sell a new truck and thus be able to enjoy a profit from the second transaction.
The judge agreed that Ladd had not made any profit from the sale of the truck to Johns when he allowed the Japanese $1,500.

Ueyama sued the Ladd Garage for $273.38, being the difference between the balance on the truck and the repair account, while the garage company entered a counter-claim for $320, being the estimated profit accruing to

NEW METHOD OF PASTEURIZING FRUIT JUICES

Summerland Experimental Station Men Develop Process Which May Bring Big Development

SUMMERLAND.—Development of a simple and cheap method of pasteuriz-ing apple and other clear fruit juices by the "Flash Sterilizer" by F. E. Atkinson and C. C. Strachan at the fruit by-products division of the Dominion Experimental Station here may enable a new industry to gain a foothold in British Columbia.

It is expected the industry will play a tremendous part in solving the surplus fruit crop problem.

Experiments in this direction are being undertaken quietly and thoroughly, and have thus far proved successful.
The apparatus consists roughly of two metal cylinders, five-sixteenths inches apart with rings that clamp over both ends.

The sterilizer is placed in boiling water and juice from the mashed apples flows through it by gravity. Only a thin layer of juice is permitted to pass through, enabling the juice to be raised to pasteurizing temperatures in 11 seconds, ensuring that all the vital elements of the fruit juice are retained.

Develop Public Taste

This method, or a commercial application of it, has already been used successfully by an Okanagan firm and if a public taste for this product, high in vitamins and of great dietetic value, can be developed, it will prove an incalculable boon to the Okanagan apple industry.

The juice, being unfermented, has no resemblance to cider and going through a quick low-temperature pasteurizing process, carries all the tangy taste of a well-ripened apple.

A ton of apples will produce 120 gallons of juice.

It is estimated here that at this rate of production, the grower should receive a profit and the juice could be sold at a reasonable price to the consumer.

Other Fruit Too

Of equal interest is the work being done on the canning of apricot, prune, cherry and raspberry juices.

The great advantage of these juices is that all the goodness of the fruit is retained, and the natural flavour, can be placed on Canadian tables in a most convenient form.

Far up on the list for dietetic value stand apricots with their high iron content. This juice is produced with suspended pulp in the same form as the present commercial tomato juice.

Prune juice produced this way or as a clear liquid.

HOTHOUSE TOMATO DEAL DISTRESSING

Southern United States Shipments are Flooding Canadian Markets

The coming week-end will see field tomatoes moving in volume from the Okanagan. Shipments from Coquise and Olive districts has already started to some extent and the movement will gradually work north.

The hothouse tomato deal, now concluding, has not proven a satisfactory one for the Okanagan. Protection, which was formerly five cents a pound has been reduced to two cents this year. A direct result of this is that the Canadian market has been flooded with tomatoes from the southern United States, where labor is cheap and plentiful. At one time this spring 16 cars, were abandoned to the railways in Montreal.

The valley crop is also meeting with stiff competition from the Medicine Hat district of Alberta. Supplies are being shipped into British Columbia as far as Nelson and vicinity at $2.25 a crate delivered. This is 25 cents below the f.o.b. Okanagan price, with retail price $2.90.

F. A. Lewis, chairman of the B.C.
F.G.A.'s tariff committee, has placed the situation before L. F. Burrows, of Ottawa, secretary of the Canadian Horticultural Council.

Another factor that tended to handicap the Okanagan was the difficulty of obtaining supplies to make up mixed cans. With cherries and vegetables now moving freely, this difficulty has been overcome.

Cucumbers are moving from all Okanagan centres in good volume, with the small Kelowna crop coming ahead rapidly. Carrots and beets are plentiful and are now big enough to sack.
Prices are: beets, $30 ton, cabbage, $37
ton, cucumbers, 90c crate, carrots, $45 ton.

KILLS SNAKE WHICH HAD PARTIALLY EATEN PHEASANT

While out shooting magpies this week,
W. C. Sigale, of Vernon, killed a rat-lesnake that had caught and partially devoured, a young pheasant. The snake apparently heard Mr. Sigale's approaching, for it had coiled up the bird and was lying coiled beside it when he came very close to stepping on it.
The snake had managed to swallow most of the bird's head and neck, and while part of the head was already digested, a rather large sized job lay ahead of the snake as the bird was fairly well grown. Game Warden C. F.
Still, who was out with Mr. Sigale at the time, shot a rattler a short time later. The two men bagged 39 magpies in an hour and a half's shooting and two snakes.

the garage on the sale of the second truck which had been ordered on Uyeyama's agreement.

Judge Swanson went into the case fully in his judgment and allowed every claim made by the garage. Costs of the action were even placed against the plaintiff, Ueyama, whose counsel was H. V. Craig. T. F. McWilliams appeared on behalf of the Ladd Garage.

buy better at home."
The speaker cited several instances of which he had personal knowledge where people had planned to purchase outside Kelowna, but, upon investigation, found that they could purchase the same article at either a lower or the same cost right in the city from local merchants, and in addition obtained a far more satisfactory service.

The speaker suggested that a ladies' auxiliary of the branch could do much effective work along these lines and also suggested that a better business committee be formed after the model of that of the junior board of trade.
This latter body was highly commended for its aggressiveness and the effective manner in which it had undertaken to solve a number of local problems.

"The retail merchants branch can only be properly effective if it has the hundred per cent co-operation of every merchant. Some of the various sections of the branch had a hundred per cent membership. Others unfortunately had not as yet reached that mark. Every merchant could achieve a definite value by membership in the branch," the speaker urged.

Mr. Whiteway extended a cordial welcome to His Worship Mayor Jones, and representatives of the Provincial Police, the Womens' Institute, Rotary Club, Gyro Club, Senior Board, Junior
Board, The Kelowna Courier, Capital
News and CKOV.

During the course of the evening L.
Kerry recounted some of his experiences during a recent trip to England and J. Brown told of the expansion of CKOV. Mr. Browne recalled how CK had raised fifty-eight hundred dollars for the Fraser Valley relief fund and explained that the station was increasing its power to a thousand watts. This would mean the removal of the transmitter outside the city to a location where two two or three-hundred foot steel towers would be erected and sixteen acres would be necessary to accommodate the nine miles of wire for the ground circuit.
M. C. McKenzie briefly thanked the speakers and the committee in charge.

COLLAPSE IN CREAM PRICES

Special cream is now bringing 18 cents per pound in Alberta. This is due to softness in the butter market across Canada and in England. Quotations of both butter and cream have been two to four cents a pound under last year during June. Some indication of the collapse can be had when it is remembered that 90 days ago Alberta farmers were being paid 38 cents for the same grade of cream which is bringing 18 cents today.

5 TENDERS FOR FERRY

great assistance to the local engineer and his staff is the fact that a machinery shed and a garage will be erected on the public works department property on the Vernon Road. This will greatly facilitate the operations of the local staff.

The Courier subsequently wired the department in Victoria asking for further details about the ferry construction and accommodation and when the tenders would be called. A telegram from the chief engineer in reply stated that a hundred thousand dollars had been allocated for the ferry construction and that the tenders would be called without delay. The further information was given that the new ferry would be of sufficient size to carry thirty cars.

Unless there has been a radical change in the plans which the department is understood to have prepared some months ago, the new ferry will be a much faster craft than the Holdup and the loading and unloading will be of a much simpler nature, thus eliminating much of the delay. It is hardly probable that the new ferry will be put into commission until the early spring. Further announcements by the government will be awaited with interest, as it is already being discussed as to whether it will be built here or shipped in piecemeal and assembled here.

The government's announcement brings to an end an effort lasting over the period of many months by the people of South Okanagan to impress upon the provincial authorities the necessity of immediate action to improve the local ferry service as it was slowly strangling the business life of the entire Okanagan Valley.

The announcement also alleviates the considerable concern that had been felt by the growers and fruit shippers in the southern section of the Valley. These felt that unless some drastic action was taken their fruit shipments would be tied up completely and much time and money lost. In this connection J. Armstrong, mechanical superintendent of the department of public works, is coming to Kelowna for the express purpose of arranging an auxiliary service to accommodate the fruit trucks and other traffic during the hectic rush period this year. While there is no information available as to just what type of service the department is planning, it is to be expected that it will be adequate to handle this year's traffic. The announcement as to Mr. Armstrong's arrangements will be awaited with interest by the shippers themselves and the general public, which, during the past few years, has been forced to curtail its ordinary business during the rush season in an effort to co-operate with the movement of fruit.

Further details about the probable road program in this district will be found in another column.

We are glad to learn that Mrs. C. Casorsa is recovering from injuries received last week, when the buggy in which she was riding was overturned on the S. R. L. hill.

For the first time in ten years, Mount Mayon, active volcano on the island of Luzon, in the Philippines, went into action, with the results depicted ABOVE in pictures taken by fliers of the U.S. Army Air Corps. For eight days the mountain rumbled and groaned as dense smoke, steam, flames and ashes were spewed from "the most perfect cone in the world." Thousands of inhabitants of nearby villages and towns fled, fearing a duplication of the catastrophe of 1814, when an eruption brought death to 1,200. Little material damage was done by the latest eruption. One man died of fright while another went insane.

EFFECTIVE WAYS OF TREATING POISON IVY

Most Virulent of All Skin Irritant Plants

Of all skin-irritant plants, poison ivy and the related but less frequently met poison sumach and the far western poison oak are the most virulent. The active principle of poison ivy is an oil which is present throughout root, stem, leaf, flower, and fruit and even to the easily detached hairs. Tearing or bruising of any part of the plant liberates the oil to come in contact with the exposed parts of the person touching it. The first sign of infection is usually a slight itching followed by a faint blush of the skin. The itching sensation increases and, from a few hours to some days, numerous minute blisters, or there may be only one blister, appear. In a mild infection, there may be no more than shiny dots upon the skin and no further. In other cases, the blisters eventually burst, to become irritating, oozing sores from which contagion may spread to other parts. The sores finally dry, forming scabs. A really severe attack may upset the health completely for a time.

If the poison ivy oil is suspected of having reached the skin, immediate scrubbing with laundry soap strong in lye, in tepid water changed after each lathering, or running warm water to carry away the poison is a sensible precaution. If done before the oil penetrates the skin, no other treatment is usually necessary. Washing with alcohol, kerosene or gasoline also helps to keep the poison from spreading.

Recommended Treatments

Treatments without number have been proposed and used, often indiscriminately without regard to their exact purpose. The treatment for affected parts most widely recommended in recent years, potassium permanganate, has for its purpose the destruction by oxidation of the poison itself. The parts are swabbed with a three per cent solution, made somewhat weaker if the skin is particularly sensitive. A brown stain left by the permanganate may be removed gradually by soap and water. The commonly used iodine stains even more. Once blisters have been formed rubbing should be fully avoided. If cooling substances, (baking soda, boric acid solution and such like) are used, no application should be made while the sores are oozing or they may seal over with a crust and thus aggravate conditions.

Easily Transmitted

Individuals vary greatly in susceptibility to ivy poisoning and many have never suffered any ill effects, but this cannot be taken as full assurance of immunity. Sooner or later, when perspiring freely, perhaps, or having cuts on the skin, one may become a victim and therefor obliged to exercise more caution. Persons who are certain they have not been in contact with poison ivy and declare that the infection must be air-borne or that it is "in their system" during the popularly supposed seven years after an attack, forget that the resinous oil may be sticking to clothing, especially to boots, tools, picnic baskets, and dogs. It is easily transmitted to the hands and thence to the face, and by hand-clasp to others who may not have been exposed at all. The smoke from burning the plant has been reported to carry particles to cause severe poisoning.

A circular giving full information as to recognition of the plant, treatment of poisoning, and eradication of the pest may be obtained free of application to the Publicity and Extension Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

LIGHTNING CAUSES LIGHT DISTURBANCES

Trouble on the West Kootenay Power & Light Co. lines near Rossland, presumably caused by lightning, created a mild disturbance in the electric light system in Kelowna about ten o'clock Sunday evening. Certain sections of the city, including the main business section, were affected by the cutting off of a wire feeding the circuit. However, an auxiliary circuit was swung into action without any undue difficulty. The result was an extreme dimming of the lights, while Neon signs flashed at an alarmingly rapid rate.

Scout Commissioner's Corner

Now that the summer holidays are almost with us once more the thoughts of Scouts and Cubs will everywhere be turning to that of Camp, which nearly always should be the main feature of the year, particularly for Scouts. Cubs are only expected to hold a camp for the whole Pack for a period of from four to five days waiting until they become Scouts for the longer camp of from ten days to two weeks. Much to our regret only six leaders registered for the proposed Leaders' Training Camp at Otter Bay from the 4th to the 11th of July, so the official Gilwell Camp cannot be held, but we learn from Assistant District Commissioner Morrow of Vernon that even so he may conduct a camp for Leaders during the proposed period. Unfortunately it is difficult indeed for young men in this, an agricultural community, to get away at what is always the beginning of the busiest time of the year. When the time in the year does come that they are not so busy, then the weather is not exactly suitable for living out-of-doors.

If any parents of Scouts or Cubs would like to give their boys a holiday at sea level I would be glad to give them particulars of the Scout and Cub camps which are held at Camp Byng, Roberts Creek, every year for boys from all over the Province. This year's camp for Scouts opens on the 7th of July and I think that the cost is the same as usual, that is $10.00 for Scouts for two weeks plus $1.50 return boat fare and $5.00 for Cubs for one week plus $1.50 for return boat fare in each case from Vancouver. NO ACTION TAKEN ON WATER CUT-OFF

Council Lays Over G. G. Barber Water Service Case One Week

No action was taken on Monday night by the city council or engineer towards cutting off the water service to the George S. Barber premises on the council committee session last Monday and it was decided to lay the whole matter over for one week until the open council session next Monday, July 4.

However, a letter was received from Mr. Barber's solicitors in Vernon by the council committee session last Monday and it was decided to lay the whole matter over for one week until the open council session next Monday, July 4.

A.Y.P.A. HOSTS TO VISITING DANCERS

Successful Dance Staged at the Aquatic Club by Young People

A most successful dance was staged by the Kelowna branch of the Anglican Young People's Association in the Aquatic pavilion on Tuesday evening, Summerland and Vernon members of the association being the invited guests of the local members. Nearly two hundred young people danced until 2 o'clock, when the visitors left for their homes. Chas. Pettman and his Imperials supplied lively dance tunes, with a slight intermission at midnight. A number of novelty dance numbers, including a polka, broom dance, heel and toe polka, minuet and others were on the splendid program.

This is an annual gathering which is looked forward to more and more as it provides an opportunity for young people of other cities and towns to come to Kelowna and become better acquainted. Ted Hardy was master of ceremonies for the evening.

STORES OPEN UNTIL 5.30 TODAY

As Dominion Day falls on Friday and the stores in the city will be closed all day, they will remain open today, Thursday, until five-thirty o'clock this afternoon, to accommodate the shoppers who ordinarily makes their purchases on Friday.

FRANK SONNTAG HAS NEW TYPE OF SPEEDBOAT

Well-Known Wenatchee Racer Says His New Methods Will Attain Speeds of Over Fifty

Kelowna regatta fans have many times thrilled to the spectacular racing skill exhibited by a frequent visitor to the annual races, Frank Sonntag, of Wenatchee. Sonntag, with his partner, Leonard Keller, of the same city, is an inventor, builder and pilot of racing boats.

There is every possibility that Sonntag will exhibit something entirely new in the speedboat class, a revolutionary type adapting outboard principles, the like of which has never been seen before in Wenatchee or any other place, Sonntag states. It is expected that Sonntag will be entered in the Kelowna Regatta on August 3 and 4 this year to exhibit this newest invention.

The Wenatchee World gives Frank and Leonard a good send-off with the following report:

Sonntag has tried it out on Lake Chelan where he did 38 miles an hour in first tests. "But I'm getting the kinks out of it and when they start putting on the races, she's going to be there with bells on."

Using an outboard hull, Sonntag and Keller have adapted it for an inboard motor, carrying the load on the stern as an outboard instead of mid-ship. "This puts the propeller ahead of the drive," Sonntag explains. "It pulls the boat instead of pushing it. That means that there is nothing ahead of the propeller except quiet water, and that means everything. The water is not churned full of air so there is no cavitation, no water compressed on the propeller."

The success of this principle already has been positively proven, Sonntag says, as he has had to reduce the size of the propeller to half of that used on the same motor when it was fitted with a push-drive propeller. Sonntag has put this type of outfit on Tom Rose's boat "and he is sure getting results."

Sonntag built his own motor, using a Model B Ford block.

Keller also is making a name for himself in the boat field. He is building a speedometer which is selling all over the country, and just received a very encouraging letter from the Outboard corporation which is interested. He uses a pressure gauge and re-calibrates the dial, giving an accuracy greater than that on an automobile.

Sonntag promises his new boat will push Keller's speedometer up past the 50 mark by the time racing gets under way this summer.

DOMINION GIVING FULL CO-OPERATION

Attorney-General Gordon Wismer Speaks of Game Board Operations

That the Dominion government authorities at Ottawa are now offering "the fullest co-operation" to the B.C. Game Commission in its new work of administering and propagating sport fish in this province, was the pleasing word brought to Okanagan sportsmen by Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer, a visitor to Vernon.

In making this brief announcement before members of the Rotary Club, Mr. Wismer coupled with it the statement that the Game Board is making really excellent progress in its endeavor.

As British Columbia's chief law officer, Mr. Wismer is head of the Game Board, which body last January assumed control from Ottawa of sport fish in non-tidal waters. Under the B.N.A. Act the province owns the fish but the regulation and control lie with the Dominion. This is now changed insofar as this province is concerned.

All reasonable recommendations are being accepted by Ottawa, he said, "and the progress made would astound you, if I had time to tell you of the work accomplished."

He had determined, he said, that "there is no room for petty politics" in the program as mapped out. Control will be absolutely non-political.

GORGEOUS SUMMER FLOWERS FORM LOVELY BACKGROUND FOR NUPTIALS

Margaret Eunice Hayman is United to Dr. T. Dalrymple, Vancouver, in Pretty Ceremony

Beautiful roses and shaded blue delphiniums formed the floral background for the wedding ceremony of Margaret Eunice, younger daughter of Captain and Mrs. L. A. Hayman, to Dr. Thomas Dalrymple, of Vancouver, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dalrymple, of Vancouver, which was performed on Saturday evening, June 25, at 7:30 o'clock at the First United Church in Kelowna. Rev. A. C. Pound, of Rutland, officiated at the ceremony.

The attractive fair-haired bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose a beautifully tailored white silk suit which was offset by a dainty blouse of powder blue. Her tailored hat of white was also trimmed with the same shade of blue while her further accessories were of white. She carried a lovely bridal bouquet of tallisman roses, blue summer flowers and maiden hair fern.

Mrs. Gordon C. Large, of Vancouver, the only attendant, was becomingly attired in a tailored beige afternoon dress with her accessories of British Tan. She carried a bouquet of Chief Kookom carnations and fern.

Dr. Gerald Watson, of Revelstoke, attended the groom as best man, while the ushers were Mr. Malcolm Chapin, Mr. Allan McKenzie, Mr. Bob Knox and Mr. W. Knox.

During the signing of the register Master Robert Emslie was the soloist, accompanied by Mr. Cyril Mossop at the organ.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, on Beach Avenue, where the reception rooms were decorated with lovely disposals of roses and blue delphiniums.

The bridal party was assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. Hayman, who chose for the occasion a becoming gown of navy blue sheer with touches of white, and accessories of white, while Mrs. Dalrymple, mother of the groom, was dressed in a smart suit of black silk trimmed with ivory lace, and her accessories were also of ivory.

Serviteurs were Mrs. E. F. Dodd, Miss Maureen Hamilton, Miss Freida Dilworth, Miss Patricia Hamilton, Miss Joan Gore, Miss Noel Smith, Miss Joan Adams and Miss Ruth Sims.

Mr. W. E. Adams proposed the toast to the bride which was suitably responded to by the groom.

After the reception Dr. and Mrs. Dalrymple left by motor for San Francisco and southern California, the bride travelling in a navy blue afternoon frock with her accessories and hat of navy, topped by a coachman topcoat of gray nubby wool.

Upon their return Dr. and Mrs. Dalrymple will make their home in Vancouver.

Out-of-town guests included: Mr. and Mrs. T. Dalrymple, Mr. and Mrs. J. Dalrymple, Mr. W. Dalrymple, Dr. and Mrs. Gordon C. Large, Vancouver; Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Watson, Revelstoke; Mrs. E. Scott Sims and Miss Ruth Sims, Miss Marion Lange, Vancouver; Mrs. G. Hayman, and the Misses Kathleen and Dorothy Robinson of Naramata.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

HOUSING SUGGESTION

Kelowna, B.C., June 28, 1938.

The Editor,
Kelowna Courier.

Dear Sir:

Pursuant to this week's "Advertiser," it certainly is the patriotic duty of every woman to do her utmost to see that the men in her community are comfortably housed.

Might I suggest that delegates to the coming Liberal convention be housed in the unused post office. I know that a recent "Convention" was rudely evicted from similar premises in a neighboring city. However, I am quite sure that could not happen here. The citizens of Kelowna would be really glad to see the building, of which they are quite proud, put to good use at an early date. Besides, the Liberal Government, both at Ottawa and at Victoria, has been so remiss in the handling of the unemployment situation that, should a lack of adequate billets arise, my suggestion might cause the Government and its supporters to really do something constructive.

Unfortunately, some of us have brothers and relatives at both "conventions" and can do little about it. Regretting that we have no Art Gallery to afford inspiration to our visitors, I am,

Yours respectfully,

(Mrs.) JANET S. GIBB.

RUTLAND EGGS GO TO PREVENTORIUM

Welfare Club Visits Institution and Finds Work Interesting

Members of the Rutland Welfare Club visited the Gordon Campbell Preventorium on Friday afternoon, June 24th. The eggs collected by the school children of Rutland were delivered to the Preventorium at this time. The members were very much interested in the work of the institution.

Class picnics are now the order of the day. Mr. A. N. Humphrey's pupils spent an enjoyable day in the city park on Friday, in spite of a rainy morning. High school pupils went to Okanagan Centre on Tuesday for their outing and were favored with fine weather.

Miss Evelyn Giraud of Nakusp is paying a short visit to her sister, Mrs. W. G. Webster, driving over in the company of two cousins, Fred and Herbert Miller, also of Nakusp.

Mr. G. D. Brown, of Kelowna, took the service in the Rutland United Church on Sunday evening last, Rev. A. C. Pound occupying the pulpit at the Kelowna United Church for the evening service.

Mrs. J. S. Sandy, of Moorhead, Minnesota, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. A. C. Pound, arriving on Monday by Greyhound, making the journey via Vancouver, from Fargo, N.D.

Pupils of the Rutland school are operating a successful "book exchange" for the redistribution of school books needed by the younger pupils who are advancing to a higher grade, but no longer needed by the older pupils. The small margin of profit to the exchange will go to purchase new books for the school library. Dick Reith and Nancy Reid are in charge of the exchange.

The United Church parsonage is receiving its youth these days, the exterior being treated to a new coat of paint.

The crew consists of eight girls, of an average age of 16 years. Lynda Adams, Canadian and Pacific International diving champion, member of the British Empire team in 1934 and 1936, member of the Canadian Olympic team in 1936, and International junior backstroke record holder, are both members of the team. George Athans, Canadian and Pacific International diving champion, and member of the 1936 Canadian Olympic and the 1938 British Empire teams, will accompany the squad and will give exhibitions.

THOUSAND FANS SEE INDIANS IN 20-17 VICTORY

Salmonbellies from New Westminster Travel to Vernon for Licking at Hands of North Shore Native Sons

One thousand Okanagan residents in the Vernon Sports Arena on Saturday night, saw Vancouver North Shore Indians defeat New Westminster Salmonbellies 20-17, in a thrilling exhibition lacrosse match that provided excellent entertainment.

Just prior to the game, R. L. "Pat" Maitland, K.C., M.L.A., a member of the Coast Inter-City Commission, said that the players agreed with him that the match was really more important than a league contest, because first grade lacrosse here was unknown and must be "sold" to the spectators. Mr. Maitland was introduced by Commissioner Chairman E. W. Kinard, and others on the floor were Dan McKenzie, a past president of the Canadian Lacrosse Association, Manager Andy Paull, of the Indians, and Manager "Grumpy" Spring, of the Salmonbellies.

Prominent Visitors

Other prominent visitors in Vernon with the teams were Mayor Fred Hume of New Westminster, J. M. Straight, secretary of the Inter-City Commission, Guy Patrick, of Vancouver, Oscar Swanson, of New Westminster, J. J. Hall, of Kamloops, president of the Interior Lacrosse Association.

The Indians took an early lead that saw them ahead 7-3 at the end of the first quarter and they maintained it throughout, though closely pressed in the game's dying minutes.

"Hawkeye" Henry Baker, the only Indian ever to perform with an Olympic lacrosse team, took the crowd's eye with his spectacular work in goal. The Salmonbellies star custodian, diminutive Pete Anthony, on the other hand, did not impress. Whether the shots, as the majority of them did, found their way into the nets or not, Anthony did not seem to change even his expression, much less his actions. His timing was apparently "off" as the ball seemed to slip under his crosse.

RUTLAND ADANACS TAKE FIRST LEG OF TITLE SERIES

Defeat Red Sox 8-5 in Final Best-of-three Series to Decide Central League Championship

The Rutland Adanacs took the first game of the final play-off series for the Central Okanagan baseball league championship at Rutland Monday night when they defeated the Red Sox nine by 8 runs to 5, in a game that only went five innings instead of the scheduled 7, due largely to the loose nature of the game. Both pitchers did their best, but errors by their team-mates put them in difficulties repeatedly. James was in the box for the Red Sox, and the Adanacs found his offerings a little difficult at first, but hit freely toward the end of the game. Each was on the mound for the home team and struck out eight Red Sox batters in the five frames, but was a little wild, walking one man and hitting three others. James was also wild, walking three, and making three wild pitches.

The Rutland shortstop had an off night, six errors being chalked up against him, three in one inning. John Holisky was the best man with the stick, getting three hits in three times at bat, and scoring two runs. A third run was cut off at the plate by a perfect throw-in by August Boklage when John tried to score on Frank Westradowski's hit in the third inning. Davis contributed the best fielding of the game when he made a fine running catch of Bedford's long fly to centre-field in the fifth. With two Red Sox runners on bases at the time the catch was a valuable aid in stopping a Red Sox rally.

Going into the last half of the fifth one run down, the Adanacs staged a merry-go-round to win the game by a three-run margin, four hits, two walks, two wild pitches and one sacrifice hit spelling the ruin of the Red Sox.

Batteries for the game were:
Red Sox: James and V. Leier; Adanacs: Bach and J. Holisky.
Score by innings:
Red Sox: 0 3 0 0 2 5 4
Adanacs: 1 0 2 1 4 3 9 7

ENTERED POLICE OFFICERS' HOME

Young Vancouver Man Dismissed After Being Found in Casorso Block

About midnight, Saturday, June 25, Constable W. J. Butler discovered a young man, who gave his name as Floyd Frith, Vancouver, in his apartment on the top floor of the Casorso Block, Bernard avenue. Frith was arrested when he failed to give an account of his actions, and on Monday morning he appeared before Magistrate J. F. Burne charged with being found in a dwelling with the intent to commit an indictable offence.

Frith claimed he had gone into the building for the purpose of ascertaining the correct spelling of the word Casorso, as he intended to apply for a job. The police did not press the charge, and Frith was dismissed. Moses Abel, a Westbank reserve Indian was fined $6.75 on Monday in police court on a charge of being intoxicated. His supplier is being sought.

Two Rutland residents appeared in police court recently, charged under the Public Schools Act with failing to send their children to school. They were Louis Senger and John Weinhardt, and both were fined $5 and $2.50 costs or five days. Both fines were paid.

For non support of his wife and children, Joseph Sargenia was fined

W.I. HEARS TALK ON FOOD FACTS

Final Meeting Until September—Household Problem Talk

Miss Edith Elliot, from the Home Economics branch of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, gave an interesting address on "Food Facts and Facts" at the regular meeting of the Kelowna Women's Institute on Thursday afternoon, June 23rd, at the Institute hall. Miss Elliot informed the members that anyone may request help in household problems large or small from the branch at Ottawa by sending an unstamped letter stating their problem clearly. Information for papers to be read at Women's Institute and similar meetings will be forwarded on request.

W. I. meetings will be discontinued until September, when Mrs. Goldsmith will report on the Provincial Conference at Vancouver. All business will be taken care of by the executive.

Three resolutions came up for discussion. One, an appeal to our government, urging some immediate and special attention in establishing a ration equipped clinic divorced from hospitals; also one to forbid the sale of indecent publications, and one to elect at least two rural women to the Provincial board of Women's Institutes of B.C. All three were endorsed by the meeting.

A letter has been received from Dr. R. E. McKechnie of Vancouver, advising that the baby sent to the children's hospital, Vancouver, for an operation is progressing favorably.

Twenty-two babies attended the June Well Baby Clinic. A contest of Charlie McCarthy medals had very few entries. Mrs. Clement was the winner of the prize. Mrs. Ablett and Mrs. Barton were the hostesses for the day.

PETTY THEIVING IN CITY PARK

Some petty thieving has been reported from the city park where transients and others have been cooling off during the hot summer days. Bathing is being warned by the provincial police to be careful where they leave valuables, as the risk of them being stolen is apparent.

BIGGER CROP OF CHERRIES THAN WAS EXPECTED

Fruit Leaders Agree That Estimates Are Too Low—Twenty Per Cent to Processing for Insurance

There will be a bigger crop of cherries than was estimated or ever expected this spring, E. J. Chambers, Associated Growers president, remarked in an informal discussion in the Fruit Board offices on Monday. And besides that, the cherries are bigger and in better condition than for years.

This opinion was substantiated by O. W. Hembling and G. E. Brown, of the Fruit Board, who considered that a portion of the Bing cherries have been laid aside for the processing plants before they became too ripe. If twenty per cent of the black cherries were put aside each year for processing then each farmer would have some insurance against rain damage, Mr. Chambers remarked.

On Monday the Fruit Board issued a circular requiring each shipper to market 20 per cent of his total volume of Lambert cherries to processing plants for processing. Practically all the cherries have been packed in the Oliver-Osoyoos district and they are about at their peak in Penticton and Summerland. The big rush is commencing in this district and throughout the entire valley the cherry rush will be the main endeavor in the packing houses for the July 1 week-end.

CONSTABLE SECOND GOES TO VICTORIA

Provincial Police Constable Ira Seccord has been called to Victoria to reinforce the police forces in preparation of any outbreaks or demonstrations on the part of the unemployed sit-downers who have moved into the capital city. Constable Seccord was on escort duty in Vancouver when the sit-downers were ousted from the post office and Art Gallery and accompanied police detectives during the riot.

TOUR OF PALESTINE FASCINATING STORY FOR YOUNG PEOPLE

Rev. A. C. Pound, Rutland, Tells Of His Trip Through Holy Land Sixteen Years Ago

A fascinating account of his trip in 1922 through Palestine was given by Rev. A. C. N. Pound, of Rutland, to the Young People's Society of the United Church Sunday evening, June 26.

Jerusalem of about 100,000 people has four distinct districts of Jews, Arabs and Armenians, and the rest are Christians, being mostly Roman and Greek Catholics. He passed around a small piece of rock taken from the wall of Jerusalem which is about twenty feet high and fifteen feet wide, and over which tourists walk or ride on camels. He exhibited also a rock from the ruins of the ancient synagogue where Christ is said to have attended. The ground saw a 2,000-year-old Jewish coin and a modern one of two piasres, valued about ten cents.

Held sacred by Christians, Jews and Moslems is the Dome of the Rock and another outstanding edifice is the Mosque of Omar built in 600 A.D., a former Christian church, and the Church of the Holy Sepulchre with small interior chapels.

Bethlehem, not a village as it is imagined by some, but a town of 10,000, is six miles south-west of Jerusalem. There are many beautiful houses built by westernized Jews who have settled in the haven of Palestine.

The Church of the Nativity is the oldest Christian church in the world, built in 330 A.D. by the wife of the Roman emperor Constantine, who was the first to permit Christians to worship freely.

Nazareth is barren with few trees but nearby are fertile valleys. The carpenter shop believed to have been the one used by Christ during the greater part of His life is enclosed by a church built around it. Jacob's well is similarly surrounded from which the people of the community draw their water and carry it in containers, including coal oil cans, on their heads. The most beautiful and varied colored flowers in the world, he believed, were those growing luxuriantly on a big hillside near Nazareth, an unforgettable sight, as were also the sunsets of rich colors seen from the centre of the Lake of Galilee.

Modern Trains and Buses

Modern English style trains rumble between the ancient Palestine towns as well as regular buses which travel over smooth highways where once strangers stumbled over rough roads infested with murderous thieves. A paved highway from which Jerusalem can be seen ten miles away approaches the city via the Mount of Olives. Snow-capped summits rise above rugged barren mountains.

It was thrilling, he said, to walk where Christ often did, in the same buildings and stairways, over the same roads and sail on the same lakes.

Roy Little heartily thanked Mr. Pound for his fascinating travel account.

The Y.P.S. Sunday evening meetings are discontinued until September although social affairs are planned for the "vacation" months. The society members extended their thanks to the Kelowna Courier for publishing all the reports submitted concerning the group's activities.

WHAT MAN WILL DO FOR A COW

Enderby Farmer Tries To Take Can Off Hoof—Nose Smashed

VERNON—A young dairy cow roaming the pasture while at work producing milk filled with Okanagan sunshine stepped in a can. It became wedged firmly onto the animal's hind hoof. The sharp, rusted edges of the can were cutting into the heifer's foot and causing her considerable pain and annoyance. John McPherson of Enderby kindly undertook to help the animal. Possibly his intentions were not entirely humanitarian as John knows any irritated dairy cow produces less milk and of a lower test. Mr. McPherson obtained tin snips and started to cut the can off.

The cow suddenly lashed out with the foot having the can imbedded on the hoof. She struck John squarely in the chest and knocked him against the wall. Thinking the animal misunderstood, Mr. McPherson approached again. This time the tormented cow kicked him squarely in the face smashing his nose and fracturing his cheek bone.

Before driving himself to the doctor in Enderby, Mr. McPherson pluckily stuck to his task and, with the help of his wife, extricated the cow's foot. It can be said to his credit also that he did not lose self control and strike

BRIGADE TEAMS TO BE JUNIOR BOARD MEETING GUESTS

Winning Fire Brigade Teams Will Have Prizes Presented at Aquatic Session Next Week

An invitation has been extended by the junior board of trade to Fire Chief Jim Pettigrew, Assistant Chief Claude Newby and members of the winning teams of the Kelowna Volunteer Fire Brigade which competed at the Fire Chiefs College at Vernon last week, to attend the junior board monthly meeting at the Aquatic Pavilion on Wednesday, July 6.

The prizes won by the teams at the Vernon competition will most likely be presented at this meeting.

Besides the Fire Brigade lads, a group of junior board members from Vernon are expected to attend the July meeting of the Kelowna junior board, so that this may prove one of the largest gatherings the junior board has ever enjoyed.

Following the meeting, the regular Wednesday night dance at the Aquatic will be in charge of the junior board, whose entertainment committee has lined up a number of snappy novelty numbers. It is to be the policy of the Aquatic to hand over every second Wednesday night dance to some local organization to sponsor.

PENTICTON TRAP SHOOTERS BEATEN

Amassing a total of 95 points out of a possible 125, Kelowna trap shooters defeated a Penticton team on the local range Sunday; a large group of Penticton marksmen paying a return visit to Kelowna. The visitors expressed delight with the splendid accommodations at the Kelowna trap shoot range.

Maurice Lane was high man for the winning team, scoring 23 out of a possible 25, other scores registered by the Kelowna team being Gordon Finch 20, the day.

L. Day 19, A. Staples 13, Mar Jok 20. The Penticton team was composed of Sgt. Halerow 17, Routh 14, Pellicano 7, Kelly 20, Miller 19, total 77.

In the high elimination shoot-off Maurice Lane was given the high mark of 23, but later protested that he had missed three birds and the score had made a mistake. It was later found to be correct and Lane had tied with Harvey Smythe, Penticton, with 22 each. In the shoot-off for first place the Penticton man was victorious.

The visitors were entertained with a quail shoot, cross shoot and doubles as part of the lengthy program of shooting. Eight members of the Penticton trap shoot club visited Kelowna for the day.

BIG IN SIZE AND SAVINGS

The size and comfort of this year's Ford V-8 is surprising. Bodies are designed and styled for beauty inside and out. And, of course, the compact V-8 engine allows more useful space for the comfort of passengers and for luggage.

In performance, the Ford is equally outstanding. The V-8 engine gives dependable power with remarkable economy. Letters from owners report that they get from 22 to 27 miles per gallon in every-day driving.

The 1938 Ford V-8 is available in De Luxe and Standard models. Both are built on the same 112-inch wheelbase and powered with the famous 85-horsepower V-8 engine. The De Luxe, at a slightly higher cost, gives you more room, more luggage space and finer appointments—all included in the delivered price.

If you haven't driven these finer Ford cars, see your dealer for a demonstration. It will give you a new conception of low cost and high comfort.

NO TENNIS AT OK. MISSION THIS SEASON

Interest At Low Ebb and Club Will Not Operate

A meeting of St. Andrew's Parish Guild was held at the home of Mrs. H. C. S. Collett on Tuesday, June 21st, to discuss plans for the rest of the present year. It was decided that no further activities would take place until the fall, when a card party will be arranged to raise funds for re-painting St. Andrew's Church.

It seems unlikely that there will be any tennis played this year on the Mission courts. Little interest was shown in a meeting of the local club called last week, and only a handful of members took the trouble to go. The club courts are in very poor shape owing to drought, and badly cut up in places where bicycles have apparently been ridden over them. Much work would be necessary to get them fit for play, besides heavy watering. The club has a good balance in hand of over $30, but will not operate until interest in tennis revives.

Mr. Alex (Buster) Morrison returned home on Friday, June 17th, from a two months holiday in the Old Country.

Miss Kathleen Hall returned home last Tuesday, 21st, from Alma College, St. Thomas, Ontario, where she has been studying music for the past year under Mrs. Huntly Green. Miss Hall is to be congratulated on her graduation in L.R.S.M.

Mr. T. Wadsworth was the guest of Col. and Mrs. Poole of Armstrong over last week-end, while on a visit to that city.

Sunday, June 26th, was the last occasion for the Sunday School classes until the close of the summer holidays.

The first cricket match between parents and juniors takes place next Sunday, July 3rd, on Mr. H. Dunlop's field; the juniors have been enjoying practice twice weekly this year under Mr. Dunlop's coaching.

Friends of Miss Barbara Middlemass will be interested to hear that she has completed her business course in Vancouver, and received an immediate appointment to the office staff of the National Institute of the Blind.

The teacher had been describing to his class the strength and fierceness of the lion. "Now," he said, "can you tell me any animal of which even the king of beasts is afraid?"

"Yes, sir," replied Tommy, "the lioness."

Preceding Chapter: Carolee befriends an old Indian woman who has broken her leg. And Stuart manifests very definite romantic interest in Carolee.

CHAPTER XIII

The two reporters slept late next morning and so missed some pertinent conversation incident to the search for Paul Colter.

Sheriff Watson arrived at the Lodge just at daybreak. He hadn't slept, and he wanted coffee badly enough to arouse the Lodge cook for it. Stuart Blake, deeply concerned over the matter, was awakened by the sheriff's arrival and came out promptly.

"What lucky!" Stuart asked anxiously, there in the kitchen.

"Plenty; maybe too much," was the laconic reply.

"What—what is it? Did you find Paul Colter?"

"Set down," the sheriff commanded. "I'll slip and tell you. We found him, just that minute, but the dog run off to one side and howled. We went over there and by George there was Paul's body. That was about sundown. Old-man Colter and that Silas, they sure took it on the chin."

Stuart was staring as if entranced. The sheriff resumed.

"Paul's body wasn't much bothered. We got his gun. It hadn't been shot. And he had some water and grub left. Darned if I can say yet what killed him, till we can get a doc to see the body. But there's one thing more—this."

The sheriff had reached into his coat pocket and removed a handful of rocks, four or five of them the size of walnuts.

"These here, Blake, are the dearest pieces of ore I've ever laid my eyes on! I've hung around mines all my life, and I've never seen rocks that showed more gold!"

Stuart took the pieces and fingered them. The pieces seemed to be two-thirds virgin metal—the prettiest possible deposits of free gold. Stuart knew nothing of ore specimens, but even he could sense the extreme wealth of them.

"He found his treasure!" Stuart breathed. "Even though he died?"

"I reckon he must've. This shows it, right enough. I sent the body back by some of the boys, with the Colter men, and I looked around. I couldn't find no claim monument, in the starlight. I looked the best I could around where we found him, and I couldn't see no more gold."

"But—but—where did you pick these up, Mr. Watson?"

"Right outen his hand! I'm telling you his fingers was clutched stiff around this gold. He knowed what he had, son! He must've been headin' out to tell it. But don't let it out, yet. Say nothing. Don't want no gold rush up here. It's Colter's anyway, if anybody's."

The sheriff was more excited than a sheriff is supposed to be, but then he hadn't had such a case before.

He swigged two cups of coffee, warmed himself by the stove, and finally regained his judicial calm. He was obviously doing some deep thinking, because he didn't speak any more except with "yes" or "no" for several minutes. Stuart went outside to see the cowboys and the guide who had ridden with the officer, and brought them in for coffee.

When they had gone back to their horses, Sheriff Watson lingered with Stuart again.

"Lemme ask you something, young man," he began. "When did you first meet this here Paul Colter?"

"Why, when I first got to town. To Phoenix, I mean. I ran into him in a clothing store. Potter's Store. Sells saddles and such, and—"

"Um hurn. I know. You and him had a little set-to there. Right?"

"Yes, sir. In a way. Nothing serious, but—"

"But he took a shot at you with his gun! Wasn't no accident—now was it?" He eyed Stuart hard.

"Well, no; since you ask. Matter of fact it wasn't. But it wasn't important. Misunderstanding. I got a sock on the jaw out of it, and I deserved it. The boy's sister—"

"Never mind. I know about you and the sister, too. Now you was up in the mountain the other day by yore-self, and happened to get into some trouble. That right?"

"No! Not that kind of trouble, I mean. My horse got killed, but he fell over a cliff. You see, my dad had been shot at, and—"

"YOUR dad?"

"Yes. Why?"

The sheriff eyed Stuart keenly again. Stuart was obviously confused by the trend of the questioning.

"You mean yore own pappy, old man Blake, was up there and got shot at?"

"Yes! He was shot at, and never saw who did it! They might have killed him!"

"Himmm! I hadn't got that," the sheriff mused aloud. "Well, listen—did you know old man Colter, Paul's brother, had been shot at too?"

"No!"

"Fact. He swore to it, and one bullet creased his hip. I saw the wound. And now you say yore pappy done likewise, leastwise got shot at. Colter said he hadn't done no talking about it, but was laying low and waiting. I'll question yore old man before I leave, but I reckon I'll be the same tale. This puts a new slant on it all, though."

"I don't get it," said Stuart flatly. "I don't neither, now," the officer admitted. "I thought I had something doped out, but maybe I ain't, with yore own pappy mixed in it."

"I'll tell you, son, what I had figured. Old man Colter and that Silas—they had it doped out that you shipped out and put Paul Colter out of the way because he shot at you in the store. They figure you killed him."

"ME?" Stuart almost shouted it, so astounded was he. He had forgotten that Carolee told him the same thing. "Yep, you. I sort of put two and two together on it myself, and it looked possible. Now it don't."

That evoked a lot more talking, but it didn't net anything. Pretty soon Stuart remembered that Paul had been found dead. He knew Carolee would be under great stress by it.

"I've got to go on once he told the sheriff. That girl—Carolee Colter, I'm fond of her. Fact is, Mr. Watson, I think a great deal of her. I'll go up there and do what I can."

The sheriff grabbed his arm. "None you won't!" he commanded. "You stay away from them Colters. I don't know nothing about the women, but I been talking to the men. One killin' is enough in this case."

Stuart did a lot of thinking during the next hour or so.

"If somebody shot old man Colter," he told himself, "then we both have a third party to contend with. But who?"

Then a thought struck him, a possible answer. "The sheriff! Watson! He knew everything. He tried to minimize the accidents and the shootings. He wanted the gold discovery kept secret! Then he could go up there undisturbed, ostensibly hunting clues to Paul's murderer! Jump any claim he found! Sa-a-a-ay . . . !"

More About OKANAGAN MUNICIPALITIES

who has been in Tranquille and has nearly recovered. He must stay in Kamloops and receive treatment at the sanitarium, and the Penticton municipality is being asked to pay $25 per month for him.

Another subject which the municipalities have come to a decision on, is the licensing of liquor stores in this province. Introduced by Kelowna, a motion asking the Union of B.C. Municipalities take any action necessary to force the liquor control board to pay trade's licences to the stores within the municipalities was passed unanimously.

Another resolution to ask for the right to regulate closing hours also received unanimous support.

"Can you tax the property of the King?" enquired Alderman Spencer, Kamloops. "The liquor board is not the government but a commission set up under the government," was Mayor O. J. Jones, Kelowna, reply.

The two questions as to licensing and closing hours were at first included in one motion, but the Kelowna men agreed with Councillor Pardey, Salmon Arm, that they should be placed into two separate motions, and such was done.

Revise Resolution

Another resolution introduced by Kelowna was criticized by B. C. Bracewell, Penticton, as opening up too large a field and being dangerous. The resolution was mainly to ask the government to add "signs" to its control act and thus give the municipalities power to control the erection of signs within the limits. This word "signs" was inadvertently missed from the amended legislation recently passed by the government session.

City Clerk H. Dunn, Kelowna, explained that the resolution as presented had been drawn up by the Kelowna city solicitor and was recommended by him as being the best form to use in this instance. The meeting decided, however, to simplify the language of the resolution and a modified form, as prepared by Mr. Bracewell, was adopted, including only the word "signs."

Alderman Spencer, Kamloops, introduced a resolution asking the provincial government to so amend the Workmen's Compensation Act that volunteer firemen may be admitted to its benefits.

In this, he was checked by Mr. Bracewell, Penticton, who stated that Penticton has had its firemen covered by the Act for a number of years. The Kamloops official replied that his council had never been able to accomplish this move.

The upshot was that the motion was left on the hand table until a further search of the reasons for discrimination could be ascertained. Mayor Bowman, Vernon, told the meeting that this question would likely be dealt with by the B.C. Firemen's Association, the new organization which came into being at the annual Fire Chiefs' College held at Vernon last week.

No Licensing Wanted

At the present time no motor vehicle or trailer owned by any municipality and used exclusively for the purpose of the police department or fire department or highway construction repair, or ambulance, or school bus conveyance need pay a licence or registration fee. Trucks used exclusively for garbage collection or for the operation and maintenance of water and sewage systems.

For the purpose of having all municipally-owned motor vehicles granted freedom from licence and registration costs a resolution from Kamloops asking that the motor vehicle act be so amended received endorsement.

A third Kamloops resolution dealt with assessment appeals and tends to disallow any lowering of assessments on a property which is on an equitable basis with surrounding properties. This resolution was endorsed and will go forward to the U.B.C.M. for presentation to the provincial legislature.

The resolution follows:

"Whereas the Municipal Act, section 223 (1) provides that:

"For the purpose of taxation and, except as hereinafter provided, shall be assessed at its actual value, and improvements shall be assessed for the amount of the difference between the actual value of the whole property and the actual value of the land if there were no improvements provided, however, that land and improvements shall be assessed separately."

"Be it resolved to request the provincial government to so amend the Municipal Act that, so long as it can be proved that any particular parcel of property is assessed equitably in comparison with other properties no reduction can be made on appeal."

Reports on Commission

At the outset of the meeting, Mayor Jones, chairman, spoke briefly on his trip to Victoria with Mayor C. E. Scanlan, Kamloops, to present the Okanagan Municipal Association brief to the Rowell Commission on Dominion-Provincial relations. The delegates received an attentive hearing, he stated, despite their nervousness, caused by the fact that Hon. John Hart sat on one side and Hon. Gordon Wiser flanked them on the other side.

He praised Chairman Rowell as being a fine type of man and one anxious to obtain facts. The Commission had shown keen interest in the problems of the interior relative to the Dominion Housing Act, as it was the first occasion upon which the Commission had learned of preferential treatment meted out to the larger centres while the smaller cities receive little attention.

Mayor Jones believed that the net result of the Association's brief was the visit of F. W. Nicolls, director of housing, Ottawa, to British Columbia. Kelowna, he said, is looking forward to good results as emanating from Mr. Nicoll's visit, but he expressed dissatisfaction with the differential shown between loans to be made to municipalities for housing schemes and those given companies formed for the same purpose.

He urged the other main centres in the district to get in touch with Chester Owen, chairman of the Dominion Housing Act committee of the Kelowna board of trade, who would elucidate plans being formulated in the Orchard City.

At the previous Association meeting the relief situation more than pays for itself in the amount of work accomplished. The city pays but twenty per cent of the relief costs and obtains 100 per cent of the work, he observed.

This situation applied to most municipalities, it was considered, the only trouble being that the men working out their relief money do not accomplish as much as those who are employed in the ordinary way.

This discussion came to a conclusion with a resolution proposed by Councillor Johnson, Penticton, asking the U.B.C.M. to ask the governments concerned to take action towards establishment of shorter hours of work, with a view of relieving the present cost of unemployment, and put more men to work. The meeting endorsed this resolution.

had been forwarded to the U.B.C.M., who replied that the Union was not in favor of the policy of grants from the government.

Mayor Jones was sympathetic to the Union stand, as municipalities can never depend on them. Councillor J. W. Johnson, Penticton, opined that a "Bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," and was told by Mayor Jones that of course the municipalities would accept any grants which the government wished to hand out.

Before the meeting concluded a lengthy discussion on unemployment and relief problems ensued, every delegate attending being in accord with the one idea that the problem of relief is a Dominion one.

Relief Problems

Reeve C. E. Bentley, Summerland, instanced one problem confronting that municipality. A mother and her daughter worked in the Summerland packing houses last year but since then have gone to Vancouver, where they have applied for relief and the mother has been deemed unemployable. Summerland believes she is employable, as she worked last summer, but cannot find any appeal board to contest the case.

Another situation was explained where the father of a family is unemployable, and the son is deemed of employable age and head of the family. However, the father has instructed him not to go to work and will not recognize him as the head of the family. The father, in this case, takes the attitude that he is entitled to relief but that it is not relief when the recipient does his share of work for the money received.

In this contention Councillor Johnson, Penticton, agreed and told the meeting that the name relief should not be connected with the situation where a man is working in order to obtain enough money to keep his family.

Later in the informal discussion, this same councillor spoke strongly concerning the hours of work in the Dominion, and expressed the opinion that with a six-hour day a balance could be established between the present cost of relief and the extra employment thus created.

Reeve Damgaard, Salmon Arm district, considered the old age limit should be reduced and Mayor H. Bowman, of Vernon agreed. Alderman Pardey, Salmon Arm, stated that in his city the relief situation more than pays for itself in the amount of work accomplished. The city pays but twenty per cent of the relief costs and obtains 100 per cent of the work, he observed.

This situation applied to most municipalities, it was considered, the only trouble being that the men working out their relief money do not accomplish as much as those who are employed in the ordinary way.

This discussion came to a conclusion with a resolution proposed by Councillor Johnson, Penticton, asking the U.B.C.M. to ask the governments concerned to take action towards establishment of shorter hours of work, with a view of relieving the present cost of unemployment, and put more men to work. The meeting endorsed this resolution.

INSTAL SIGNAL AT BAD R.R. CROSSING

Completion of an automatic wig-wag signal system at a dangerous crossing near the Woodside packing house, Winfield, has been announced by the Canadian National Railway. The railway crosses the road which runs west to the main Okanagan highway, and due to the prevalence of fruit trucks and other vehicles in the vicinity has long been considered a dangerous spot.

The signal is automatic, and as the train approaches the signal is turned on, giving ample warning to the drivers of motor vehicles that a train is approaching.

ANOTHER TREK OVER HOPE-PRINCETON

In an endeavor to bring further public attention to the Hope-Princeton road, another trek is being sponsored by the Hope-Princeton Highway Association. Last year the trekkers journeyed from Princeton to the Coast. This year, Coast and Fraser Valley representatives are being invited to make the hike from Hope to Princeton, with incidental motor assistance on the already constructed portions of the link. The trek will be staged over the week-end of July 16-17.

PEACHLAND BOY RECOVERING FROM UNUSUAL FALL

Jack Gaynor Impaled On Pitchfork—Irrigation Water Off

Jack Gaynor, 15 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Gaynor, is making a good recovery after a miraculous escape in an unusual accident which took place Thursday. While working for F. Young, a neighbor, at taking in hay he slipped from the load and was impaled on a pitch fork, one tine of the fork going right through the fleshy part of his hip, entering at the thigh and coming out below the spine. His father came along as the boy was held by the fork in mid air and held the boy with one hand while he pulled the fork out with the other. Jack spent several days in Kelowna Hospital but is now recovering rapidly.

According to information received here a plebiscite is to be held July 10 on a beer parlor, the John Cameron appointed as returning officer.

Irrigation water in the Peachland Irrigation District has been off since Thursday when the ditch washed out again in the same place that gave the trouble last summer. Cooler weather and the rain lessened the danger of drying out while the water was off and the system has now been repaired and the water is running as usual.

Her bridesmaid, Elizabeth Wolfe, of Summerland, wore a floor length gown of pale green lace with bolero jacket, and she wore a coronet of pink roses, and carried a bouquet of pink roses and gypsophila. The groom was attended by William Kopp. During the signing of the register Mrs. G. Watt sang "The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden" with Mrs. J. H. Gillam accompanying and also playing the wedding march.

WESTBANK GIRL MARRIES IN ENGLAND

Jessica Paynter w. Wembley —Born at East Kelowna

The marriage took place at St. John's Church, Wembley, on June 11th, of Jessica Rachel Howard, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paynter, of Westbank, to Vernon, younger son of Rev. and Mrs. Yeulett, of Uxbridge, England. Rev. Eric Yeulett, elder brother of the bridegroom, officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Dr. Turner Wilson, wore a white satin gown with an old lace veil, an heirloom in the Paynter family, and coronet of orange blossom. Her bouquet was of red roses. Her bridesmaids were the Misses Helen and Betty Wilson and Sheila Lawson Bridgen, cousins, who wore green tulle dresses trimmed with gold lace braid, and gold Juliet caps, and carried bouquets of sweet peas.

The groom was supported by John de C. Paynter, brother of the bride.

After the ceremony Dr. and Mrs. Turner Wilson held a reception at their home "Rhonella", Wembley. They were assisted by Captain and Mrs. Lawson Bridgen, uncle and aunt of the bride.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Yeulett left by car for a tour in the north of England and Scotland, the bride's going away dress was of navy blue with white accessories. On their return they will live at "Qestover," Uxbridge, England.

Jessica was born at East Kelowna and has a great love for the land of her birth. She insisted on having her wedding dress and cake made at home at Westbank by her sister, Miss Doris Paynter.

WANT $100,000 FOR WATER SYSTEM

Penticton Council has decided to ask the approval of the ratepayers of this municipality on a scheme to spend $100,000 on the domestic water system which, in its present state, is inadequate for the rapidly growing needs of the community.

3 DESTRUCTION OF FORESTS

harbor of the game and fur-bearing animals. Throughout the history of the province the forest has been the backbone of progress until today 450 mills produce fourteen million feet of lumber or fifty-five per cent of the Canadian output and export to twenty-two countries. It is the greatest prop of the financial structure of the province.

In 1920 the peak was reached when $93,000,000.00 worth of lumber was produced. The amount last year was $86,000,000.00. The average for the ten year period 1925 to 1935, including the depression years, was $93,000,000.00 and the average revenue over this period received by the province from this source was $3,200,000.00.

In this same ten year period there were 17,000 forest fires and over 12,000 of them were of human agency. In the Kootenays in this period there was an average of 193 million feet lumbered each year and 197 million feet were burned. In the Okanagan 74 million feet were cut and 39 million destroyed by fire. In the Kootenays in 1936 900 million feet were burned and two million which paid out over two million dollars in wages saw ten years supply destroyed. This affects every section of the country. For instance, the lumber camps used many cases of Okanagan tinned fruits and vegetables and if the mills closed, this market was lost to Okanagan growers.

Using as an instance of how fires started by human agency, the speaker recalled an incident which happened near Munro Lake where a lumber camp paying over a quarter of a million dollars was located. Two young couples were fishing in the lake and left a fire on shore which was not quite out. One life was lost and six hundred acres of good timber were destroyed as a result of their carelessness. In addition there were 2,700 acres of new growth destroyed and new growth is a definite loss as it is of the greatest value in preserving the forests for future generations. Carelessness is stalking through our forests and robbing us of our greatest asset.

Col. Allen made a plea for each of his hearers to see that no damage is done to the forests through any carelessness of his. The forests are more than trees growing on a hillside. They play an important part in the conservation of moisture, in erosion, in the flow of streams, in the fishing, hunting and camping facilities, and in hygienic conditions. These perhaps are of even greater importance to the people of this province than the wood which the forests produce.

If the forests are destroyed and the balance of nature disturbed, nature has a habit of kicking back and making once prosperous districts almost destitute.

and then after a short period of standing, a second coat of surface oil is applied and the whole covered with chipped rock.

"When do you expect to start on this work?" The Courier asked.

"Just as soon as the contractors can get at it," Mr. Stowe replied. "It will be done by the contractors but I expect that it will be commenced in the very near future."

"Have you any knowledge of what work is proposed on the Okanagan highway in the other districts?"

"Nothing official but I understand that the section just beyond Penticton along Woods Lake will be given an asphalt mulch top for three and a quarter miles. This will connect with the stretch of pavement around Oyama. To the north of that where the road was reconstructed last year, there will be nearly four more miles paved with asphalt. Understand this is only my own impression and is not official."

In Similkameen nearly six miles of asphalt coating will be applied to the existing bituminous surface on the Okanagan highway from Penticton south.

About six miles of asphalt mulch will be laid on the southerly transprovincial highway from mile 68.5 to mile 73; mile 74.8 to 76.1; mile 88.5 to 89.1.

Four and a quarter miles on the Vernon-Salmon Arm road will be given an asphalt mulch treatment.

Included in the department's announcement was the information that a hundred thousand dollars had been allocated for construction of a new ferry on the Kelowna-Westbank run. Further details of this will be found in another column.
